Body Of King George V Is Brought Back To London

SUBJECTS TO PAY TRIBUTE TO MONARCH

Hundreds Of Thousands On Hand As Royal Funeral Train Arrives

LONDON, Jan. 23.—The body of King George V, borne between lanes of hundreds of thousands of his sorrowing countrymen through the streets of London, was laid in state in Westminster Hall today for the highest and lowest of his subjects to pay homage.

The royal family relinquished the king's body to the people for the next five days. Until the burial at Windsor Castle on Tuesday among his ancestor kings, George V will lie in the great hall for the people to file by for one last look at a beloved face.

There will be no distinction of rank. The most exalted power must take his place in line with the humblest commoner and wait his turn.

The body brought by royal funeral train from Sandringham, was carried through the streets on a gun carriage draped in royal mourning of purple and black, with the priceless crown of Britain resting on the royal standard on top of it.

The crowds, all in mourning, stood with bowed heads. The sobbing of women could be heard all along the line. Otherwise the great city was in silence, the most audible sound being the rumbling of the heavy artillery columns.

New King Follows

Behind the coffin walked the new king, Edward VIII. Flanking him and slightly behind were his brothers the Duke of York and Duke of Gloucester. Next came the Duke of Kent, fourth son of King George, and the Earl of Harewood, husband of the Princess Royal, only daughter of the late king.

Members of King George's household made up the remainder of the procession. It was preceded and followed by mounted police. Grenadier guards flanked the cortege. The drivers of the carriage, in full-dress uniforms with tall white plumes, sat motionless as statues.

Men in the crowds wore black ties and arm bands and many wore black clothes. Some of the women were entirely in black. Heads were uncovered and bowed as the procession passed from King's Cross station through the center of London to the Strand at Charing Cross, turned through Trafalgar Square to Whitehall, passed the tomb of the Unknown Soldier, and thence to Westminster hall.

At the hall the coffin was lifted from the gun carriage and carried to the center of the lofty timber-roofed chamber, where a catafalque awaited it on a carpet laid over the stone floor.

Union Jack Lowered

The procession arrived as Big Ben on the House of Parliament adjacent to the hall boomed the hour of four. The union jack on St. Stephen's tower was lowered and the royal standard hoisted.

An honor guard from the royal marines and the air force was drawn up. At one of the side gates stood boys from Westminster school, holding their top hats in

LOUISIANA VICTORY IS F. D. R. BLOW

President Far From Certain Of Getting 10 Southern Electoral Votes

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—Huey P. Long's posthumous primary election victory spread the anti-Roosevelt movement today deep into what used to be the solid south.

It is conceivable that the man in the grave may yet stop the man in the White House, as he often had promised to do. Louisiana's primary returns which nominated candidates of the Long machine is notice to New Dealers that at least 10 southern electoral votes are far from certain for President Roosevelt next November.

Republican strategy today would be to foster quietly a third party movement if the New Deal reverse in Louisiana is to be completely capitalized. Through most of the late Senator Long's service in congress the Republican opposition instigated some of his sharpest and most embarrassing assaults on the Roosevelt administration.

RUSH SLAYER OF FRESNO GIRL TO FOLSOM FOR SAFEKEEPING

Fear Of Mob Violence Is Expressed
Former Convict Confesses To Killing High School Girl In Home

FOLSOM PRISON, Cal., Jan. 23.—Elton Stone, 30-year-old confessed slayer of Mary Stammer, Fresno high school girl, was brought to Folsom Prison today and left for safekeeping by Fresno county authorities fearing possible mob violence if he were detained in Fresno.

The former convict, arrested last night at his lodgings at North Fork, small Madera county mountain town 55 miles northeast of Fresno, arrived here at 7:15 a. m. Warden Court Smith announced.

Folsom, California's prison for "two and three-time losers," offers a firm guaranty that citizens enraged by Stone's crime will not take him from officers and lynch him.

Such has been the case twice within the past few years when lynch mobs seized slayers from their jail cells at San Jose and Yreka.

The San Jose mob victims were John Holmes and Thomas Thurmond, confessed kidnap-slayers of young Brooke Hart, son of a prominent San Jose merchant. At Yreka, a band of vigilantes seized and lynched C. L. Johnson, accused holdup-murderer of the police chief of Dunsmuir, Calif.

Held For Safety

There was no possibility of outside vengeance reaching Stone so long as he is held at Folsom, prison officials agreed. It was believed he would be kept here until his trial, or at any rate until intense feeling against him was quieted.

Stone was brought here by Deputies Jack Tarr and John Ford of Fresno county, Robert Sanders and Charles Stone of the state bureau of criminal identification and investigation. Hurried through the main gate, he was checked in as a "guest" rather than a permanent inmate, and while here he will remain under jurisdiction of the Fresno county sheriff.

It was the third time Stone had been escorted through the gates of a large penal institution. In 1924, he was sent to the Preston School of Industry for three years on a burglary charge. In 1930, he was convicted of a charge of grand

PRESIDENT EXPECTED TO VETO CASH BONUS BILL; HUGE DEFICIT IS FACED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—A Congress beginning to foresee a $5,000,000,000 or $6,000,000,000 election-year deficit and fearful of new tax proposals awaited anxiously today President Roosevelt's expected veto of the cash-bonus bill.

Most of the deficit will be charged against the bonus, which appears assured of enactment even if vetoed, and the cost of farm relief which no longer pays its way since the AAA was outlawed by the supreme court.

The $2,237,000,000 bonus bill sped through the house yesterday and was delivered personally to the White House by Rep. Claude V. Parsons, D. Ill., chairman of the committee on enrolled bills.

The president's associates have indicated he will veto it after its provisions have been examined. It will first be sent to Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr., for study. Mr. Roosevelt has 10 days in which to veto, sign the bill or permit it to become law without his signature.

Leaders of the United Veterans' organization, supporting the cash-bond payment plan, viewed the house 356 to 59 vote on the Vinson-Patman bill and the 346 to 58 approval of the compromise passed 74 to 16 by the senate, as assuring sufficient votes to override a veto.

Congress appears inclined to leave the problem of obtaining money to finance the bonds and farm benefit payments up to the president and Morgenthau. Approximately $800,000,000 may be needed for the agricultural program—$440,000,000 for new benefits and from $225,000,000 to $250,000,000 for payment on old contracts.

400 Pupils Imprisoned In Schools

Frantic Parents Battling Snowdrifts In Indiana To Save Children

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Jan. 23.—Frost-bitten men battled against a biting west wind and mountainous snowdrifts today in an attempt to rescue 400 students and teachers marooned in isolated country school houses with little fuel and food.

At Geneva, Ind., 200 pupils and seven teachers huddled about wood fires as rescuers sought vainly to open blocked roads which had held them prisoners since yesterday morning.

At Celina, Ohio, near Geneva, 200 other children and teachers wrapped their overcoats about them for warmth.

Frightened parents trudged on foot to the Central High school building, carrying food and armloads of wood to the imprisoned victims of a blizzard which howled across western Indiana and eastern Ohio shortly after the schools opened for classes yesterday.

At another Indiana town, Switz City, a grade school building burned to the ground driving 150 students and teachers into 10-below-zero temperatures.

RESTRaining ORDER ASKED BY ATTORNEY

Attorney Petitions Court Of Appeals For Writ Of Prohibition

THE OUSTER trial of County Recorder Justice Whitney, scheduled next Monday in superior court, appeared to be temporarily blocked, possibly permanently, by a surprise move of the defense, in applying today to the fourth district court of appeals for a writ of prohibition.

A petition for the writ, asking that superior court be restrained from taking further steps in the ouster case, was dispatched today to Fresno, current seat of the appellate court, by Attorney O. A. Jacobs, counsel for Miss Whitney in the ouster proceedings instituted by the county grand jury.

In his petition, Jacobs attacked the sufficiency of the "accusation" returned against Miss Whitney by the grand jury and disputed the jurisdiction of the trial court. The appellate court was asked, on these grounds, to grant an alternative writ of prohibition against the superior court, and to require the superior court to show cause why it should not be "absolutely and forever restrained" from taking further steps in the case.

Action of the superior court in sustaining a defense demurrer to two of the 11 counts, or "specifications," in the grand jury accusation of misconduct in office, has removed the entire accusation from the jurisdiction of the court, the defense contends.

Having sustained demurrers to specifications 9 and 10 of the accusation, the court therefore has no jurisdiction to proceed with any part of the accusation, states the petition, which holds that it is imperative that another and different accusation be brought.

The petition also states that the demurrer to the "charging part" of the accusation was overruled by the court, and the court having sustained the two specifications, 9 and 10, the charging part of the whole accusation "was and became a recital only, and was ambiguous to the remaining specifications."

Miss Whitney signed the petition to the appellate court shortly before noon today, and a copy thereupon was served by Jacobs upon the district attorney.

ROOSEVELT IN PLEA FOR NEW APPROPRIATION

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—President Roosevelt today asked a $296,185,000 supplemental appropriation of the house appropriations committee to carry out rental and benefit payments on farm contracts under the old AAA program.

The supplemental appropriation will be used to carry out what the administration considers to be its "moral obligation" to complete contracts made with farmers before outlawing of the AAA. It brings the estimated cost of the administration's substitute farm program to $736,185,000, as $440,000,000 is being asked to pay benefits under the proposed new farm plan.

Early Action

The request was laid before the committee while congressional leaders pressed for early action on the administration's new soil conservation-domestic allotment farm plan to replace the invalidated AAA. The plan would give the secretary of agriculture broad powers to pay benefits to farmers cooperating in the program, although no contracts could be made.

Mr. Roosevelt submitted his supplemental estimate with an accompanying statement from Acting Budget Director Daniel W. Bell explaining that the money was to be spent only for adjustment of contracts prior to January 6, when the supreme court outlawed the AAA.

The appropriation would be for the department of agriculture "to carry out all the purposes of and to meet all obligations and commitments (including salaries and administrative expenses) incurred prior to January 6."

SEEK TO OUST SISTER IN WILL COURT BATTLE

LEGAL SPARKS began flying today in the prospective court clash of rival aspirants for administration of the $500,000 estate left by the late Miss Blanche Dolph, 87, of Dana Point and San Juan Capistrano, and a move was made to oust her sister, Miss Florence Dolph, 89, of Los Angeles, as special administratrix.

The sister won the first strategic victory Tuesday by obtaining special letters of administration from superior court, thus anticipating the filing of her sister's will, which names a companion and friend, Lucille McGaughy, as principal heir. The will was filed for probate the same day by Lucille McGaughy and O. Howard Lucy, nominated in the will as executors.

Today the executors took steps to undo the advantage gained by Miss Florence Dolph, having filed an affidavit by Lucy asking for the removal of Miss Dolph as special administratrix, and accusing her of concealing facts from the court to gain her post.

The affidavit asserted that a special administratrix was not needed and would be an unnecessary expense to the estate, as Lucille McGaughy, through long management of the deceased sister's affairs, was thoroughly familiar with all of its aspects. It would not be for the best interests of the estate to be under control of the sister, said the affidavit.

It revealed that Miss Dolph, immediately upon being made special administrator, demanded delivery of the estate's cash in a Tustin bank, and the contents of a safety deposit box.

In her petition Miss Dolph had stated to the court that "no valid will" exists, and named herself a brother and four nieces and nephews in Scranton, Pennsylvania, as the legal heirs.

Valuations recited in the petition

SCOTTSBORO CASE IN HANDS OF JURY

DECATUR, Ala., Jan. 23.—A jury of north Alabama farmers today deliberated the fate of Heywood Patterson, key defendant in the Scottsboro drama, who has been sentenced to death three times in previous trials of the same case.

Patterson is accused of leading a mass attack on Mrs. Victoria Price, 27-year-old girl "hobo" in a freight car five years ago. It was his case that was carried to the nation's highest court and won reversals of previous death sentences invoked by Alabama courts.

Judge W. W. Callahan gave the case to the jury late last night, following three days of testimony,

"NUDE DEAL" FOR FAIR IS OPPOSED

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Jan. 23.—Civic groups and the nudists squared off today for a repetition of last year's battle as to whether the sun worshipers will be allowed to cavort undressed in Zoex gardens at the California exposition.

The women's civic center, the National Council of Catholic Women, the San Diego Braille Society and the Holy Name union of men sent a formal protest to city officials against "exhibitions of nudism and other displays of unclad or scantily clad women."

The nudists themselves, who scattered like robins at the first cold snap, were not available for comment. Exposition officials, however, said contracts had been signed and the group would be on hand at the fair opening Feb. 12.

MUTINEERS IN WAGNER LABOR ALCATRAZ BOW TO LAW, ORDER IS HELD LEGAL

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 23.—Mutineering convicts of Alcatraz island federal penitentiary, listing among their number mob rulers of the prohibition and kidnap eras, capitulated slowly today to a bread and water diet and the prison's rigid, inflexible regulations.

Of the 100 prisoners who participated in the passive, bloodless revolt Monday, Tuesday and yesterday, 25 were said to have signified willingness to resume their prison duties today after experiencing the effects of Warden James A. Johnston's "work or starve" decree.

In return for their capitulation, reports said, they were placed once more on normal prison fare.

The revolt began Monday among 80 prisoners who quit work in the laundry demanding relaxation of prison rules and additional privileges.

When their demands were refused, the convicts howled and shrieked their defiance and were locked up in their own small cells or in solitary confinement cell blocks. Twenty more inmates joined the passive resistance campaign Tuesday and matters apparently remained stalemated yesterday, pitting the stubborn, sullen convicts against the unyielding prison administration.

"It is a case of me or the convicts running the prison," Warden Johnston said. "They'll find out I'm still in charge."

In announcing the backbone of the strike was broken, the warden said the remaining 75 demonstrators still were confined in individual cells and restricted to bread and water rations.

"They will come to their senses soon," he predicted. "The balance have been permitted to return to work—and food."

S. D. RACE TRACK GETS WPA GRANT

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Jan. 23.—Construction of a San Diego fair grounds and race track will start within two weeks, it was announced today as a $500,000 WPA grant for the project was approved.

George White, district WPA director, announced approval of the fund. J. E. Franks, president of the 22nd agricultural district, said plans virtually were complete and construction would get under way without delay.

The plant is to be centrally located in the county just north of Del Mar.

The allocation for the track was $67,993, White said. Stables for 600 horses will be among buildings constructed first, he announced.

Franks said race meetings in connection with the regular county fair circuit would be held. Both running and trotting races are contemplated.

HONOLULU SHIPPING STRIKE CALLED OFF

HONOLULU, T. H., Jan. 23.—Peace returned to Honolulu's waterfront today, at least temporarily.

The break in a four-day strike which tied up three freighters at Honolulu docks and threatened to hold the Matsun liner Lurline idle when she reaches here tomorrow came on the vote of union seamen, who agreed to abide by orders from San Francisco headquarters.

Crews boarded the freighters Maui, Maikiki and Golden Coast, and operations returned to normal.

Charles Post, union spokesman, said that "this dispute will be taken up in San Francisco, although we believe trouble definitely is ended here."

The strike was attributed to "blacklisting" of 34 union longshoremen at Honouapo, Island of Hawaii sugar port.

ALL HELL FREEZES OVER IN MICHIGAN

HELL, Mich., Jan. 23.—All Hell's frozen over. Snow today blanketed the deserted village of Hell, now known as Reeves Mill Pond, or Highland, and there is at least six inches of ice in the creek, known to some residences of southern Livingston county as the "River Styx."

LOS ANGELES FIRM PAYS 'BABY BONUS'

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 23.—A "baby bonus" of $100 was to be paid today to Mr. and Mrs. William B. Van Fossen by a delivery company employing the husband as a salesman, as recently promised by executives of the firm.

The system of bonuses was started by J. Nelson Kagarise, general manager of the Keystone Express company, after Van Fossen asked him to endorse a note for a loan necessitated by the approaching birth of a child.

Kagarise instead promised him and any other employees of the firm becoming parents a $100 bonus for each child.

The first to take advantage of the bonus was Van Fossen whose wife was responsible for the plan. Mrs. Van Fossen gave birth to an eight-pound baby girl yesterday which was named Irene Margaret.

PIONEER RAILWAY EXECUTIVE DIES

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Jan. 23.—Charles Morrison Burt, about 70, pioneer railway executive, died today at the La Jolla hotel where he had been living with his wife, Catherine.

Burt had been under care of Dr. Horace Laselle. Laselle could not be reached for immediate comment, but it was believed Burt died of a heart ailment.

MAY UTILIZE CCC IN AVIATION PLAN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—Eugene Vidal, director of the commerce department's bureau of aeronautics, told the house military affairs committee today of plans under consideration to utilize Civilian Conservation Corps facilities for aviation development.

Vidal testified before the committee regarding the McSwain bill empowering the secretary of war to organize a junior air reserve of youths between 18 and 20 years.

He said he had discussed with "interested authorities" the matter of using CCC personnel and 1500 camps and said he would like to "talk it over later with members of the committee."

DEATH BEATS NOTED SINGER TO REUNION

TULSA, Okla., Jan. 23.—Nelson Eddy, the singer, chartered a concert tour so as to arrive here this week for a reunion between his mother, Mrs. Esabelle Eddy and her brother, Clark Kendrick, oil man. He arrived too late, however, for Kendrick died Monday.

Eddy and his mother will attend the funeral and he is expected to sing.

FITTS TRIAL AIRS 'LOVE MART' CASE

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 23.—Ramifications of the Hollywood "love mart" case were to be examined in superior court today during the trial of District Attorney Buren Fitts on perjury charges with a "little black book" involved in the case to be produced at the session.

The book which belonged to Olive Day, one of the principals in the "love mart" case, assertedly contains a list of "customers" and other data connected with the morals case.

The book had been in possession of Deputy District Attorney Florence Odiorne since the "love mart" charges against John P. Mills, wealthy real estate man, were dismissed in 1931 at the request of District Attorney Fitts.

RADICAL CABINET LOOMS IN FRANCE

PARIS, Jan. 23.—Albert Sarraut, radical Socialist and former premier, accepted today the invitation of President Albert Lebrun to try to form a cabinet to succeed that of Pierre Laval which resigned yesterday.

Sarraut sounded party leaders on the possibility of forming an all radical cabinet, with himself as premier and foreign minister, or a left-center coalition built around the radical Socialists, with support of the Socialist party which would not, however, participate in the cabinet personnel.

their hands. Their masters stood by in gowns and mortarboards. Grenadier guards reverently lifted the coffin to their shoulders and carried it into the hall, where it was received by the archbishop, the lord great chamberlain, the earl marshal and the first commissioner of works.

Outside, the bells of Westminster Abbey were pealing. The crowds packed into Parliament Square in incredible density. Even the roofs of taxicabs were crowded with black silk handkerchiefs.

Queen Mary and the other women of the royal family, who left the funeral party at the station and went directly to Buckingham Palace instead of marching in the procession, arrived by automobile. The queen's face was lined and tear-stained. She seemed near the breaking point and occasionally her body shook with a stifled sob.

The Duchess of York, Gloucester and Kent, dabbed at their eyes with black silk handkerchiefs.

The royal family gathered in a semi-circle around the coffin while the Archbishop of Canterbury read a brief service.

The royal family then went by automobile to Buckingham Palace, over which the royal standard flew. The king planned to remain with his mother at the palace to comfort her.

Invite All Former Service Men to Legion Meeting

Former service men, whether they belong to the American Legion or not, are invited to attend the meeting of Santa Ana Post No. 121, tonight, according to Adjutant H. Rasmussen. The session will start at 8 p. m. Rasmussen said that with passage of the bonus virtually assured, the major portion of tonight's session will be devoted to discussion of ways and means for applying for and cashing the "Baby bonds" when the bill becomes effective.

indicated that the estate was worth more than a half-million.

The will was filed for probate by the executors the same day. In his affidavit on file today, Lucy intimates that Miss Dolph states that Miss Dolph did not reveal to the court "the true condition of the estate," or that there were executors appointed.

He asserts further that he met Miss Dolph in Santa Ana on the day before her petition and his petition were filed; that he told her of his intention to file the will for probate, but that she did not tell him of her purpose of filing her petition for special letters.

Under the will, executed in 1920, Lucilla McGaughey is willed the entire estate, after deducting legacies aggregating $21,500. The four nieces and nephew in Scranton receive $5000 each under the will. Miss Florence Dolph is willed a picture and a rug, described in the will as "my two most prized possessions."

Cougars Surprise Beaver Five, 32-31

FULLMAN, Wash., Jan. 22. — After losing their first session by a one-point margin, Washington State college's Cougars turned the tables on Oregon State's Beaver quintet and won a 32 to 31 victory in the second game of the Northern Division Coast conference series.

The victory was the first conference win thus far this season for the Cougars.

LONG VICTORY IN LOUISIANA IS F. D. R. BLOW

However, Republican strategists may decide to take advantage of the Louisiana bolt. The intentions of Long machine leaders toward the national Democratic administration has been indicated plainly. Gov. O. K. Allen, who has been nominated to serve the Kingfish's unexpired senate term, had this to say:

"This stupendous victory is positive disapproval of the Roosevelt New Deal and its alphabetical slush fund. In this, the first vote cast in the south, the New Deal has been absolutely repudiated."

The New Deal will control the Democratic National convention next June and may seat a Louisiana delegation pledged to cast its ballots for the renomination of Mr. Roosevelt. But if the people of Louisiana follow their Long machine leaders in the election next November it is not likely that the state's electoral vote will be set down in the Roosevelt column.

Louisiana has 10 votes in the electoral college. In a close election—and many persons believe the next one will be almost a dead heat—10 votes might win the day or lose it. But there are more than 10 votes in jeopardy if a first rate third party movement develops. There are now recognized and regularly recognized in congress four parties. They are: Democratic, Republican, Progressive and Farm-Labor. A fifth party is in the making composed of Dr. F. E. Townsend's old age pensioners, the adherents of OARP, Inc., which means old age revolving pensions. That is the $200-a-month scheme for everyone 60 or more years old.

Controls State

The Progressive party controls a state, Wisconsin, which casts 12 votes in the electoral college. The Farmer-Labor party controls a state, Minnesota, which casts 11. And in Georgia—12 electoral votes—a red-galussed young governor named Eugene Talmadge is making daily vows that he will keep his state out of the Roosevelt parade if he must run for president himself.

Fattest, most tempting of the electoral college prizes which might be won away from either of the major parties is California with 22 votes. Northern Californians probably would sputter indignation at the thought, but it is not beyond the probabilities for Dr. Townsend to kidnap that state this year as Upton Sinclair almost did in 1934. Sinclair's magic formula was EPIC—end poverty in California.

A great many "ifs" interpose between naming these five states and putting them out of Roosevelt's column or in any other, but they are five the New Dealers would have bet considerable money they would carry a year ago and the odds are less today. They represent 67 electoral votes which the New Deal cannot afford to lose next November. As it stands today almost any third party candidate who will embrace Long's share-the-wealth could expect to carry Louisiana. The same candidate need only shout for OARP, Inc., to gain the devotion and votes of California's powerful Townsend movement, as well as Townsend club support in many other states.

Winning Wisconsin and Minnesota would be more difficult. The La Follette brothers and Governor Floyd Olson are the respective bosses of those two radical farming areas. The La Follettes and Olson are hard-boiled politicians. It is not likely they would go into any third party program which promised only to defeat the New Deal. If the La Follettes and Olson get aboard it will be because they think a third party has a chance to win—at least big representation in congress if not the White House, itself.

FRESNO GIRL'S SLAYER RUSHED OUT OF TOWN

thief in Fresno and sent to San Quentin prison where he served more than three years, being released on parole in April, 1934.

Appears Sullen

Prison officials here said he appeared sullen and declined to talk about the Stammer slaying. He was assigned to a cell in the "back alley," a screened-off portion of a cell block usually reserved for old men. There, he will be away from the other prisoners.

His confession revealed nearly all details of the sordid killing. It told how he lay in wait for three nights to kill a member of the family of Walter C. Stammer, corporation attorney, and how finally, with Mary alone for a few minutes in the music room of her home, he crept to a window and shot her with a .22 calibre automatic pistol.

He refused persistently, however, to reveal the motive for the crime.

"I didn't care which one of the Stammers I got," he purportedly told authorities. "And I don't care what rap I have to take for it. I'd do the same thing again."

Pressed for an explanation of his reason, he answered: "That's my business. If Stammer had been there, it would have been him, and if Mrs. Stammer had been there it would have been her."

Stone's confession revealed how despite elaborate precautions which nearly made his the oft-discussed "perfect crime," a moment of thoughtlessness combined with the weather to give him away to police who had worked for two months with nothing to go on but a small piece of glass smashed from the Stammer's rear door.

Lone Thumbprint The glass bore a single, indistinct thumbprint, but it was sufficient to lead authorities to Stone after they painstakingly had checked approximately 2000 sets of fingerprints in their search for the slayer.

Checking the fingerprints of every man and boy within a radius of several miles of the Stammer home, officers learned that a palamedes convict named Stone had lived with his parents in the Figarden district for a week last spring, following his release from prison.

Further investigation revealed Stone had disappeared. A check of his fingerprints was easily available because he had a police record.

Police found they matched the print on the piece of glass and the case, which had dragged along for weeks while hundreds of suspects were questioned and discarded, was solved.

Stone's confession related how he borrowed an automobile from the garage where he was employed at North Fork, drove to Fresno and parked about a block down the street from the Stammer home.

Hidden in the shadows of the winding, tree-lined drive, he said, he watched the house and saw Mr. and Mrs. Stammer drive off, enroute to the railroad station where Stammer was to take a train for the south. But the attorney forgot his coat and returned.

Fires at Girl

When the car left a second time, he said, he approached the house, saw the girl sitting beneath a lamp. Then he took off his glove and aimed his pistol, firing through the window.

"I held my hand over the breach to catch the shell," he said, "then I chewed up the shell and threw it away about a hundred yards from the house."

"When I shot her she fell over sideways in the chair. I then rushed to the back of the house and smashed the door with the butt of my pistol."

"I reached inside and unlocked the latch and went inside, walking through the hallway to the front music room, where she was slumped in the chair. I picked her up and carried her back to the hallway, and into the bedroom."

"Then I placed her on the bed, pulled down the shades and tore off her clothes." Stone claimed that he did not attack the girl but admitted committing an immoral act. His state-

The district attorney's office, according to Assistant District Attorney James L. Davis, had anticipated such a move, and is prepared to meet the defense contention with high court decisions holding that the sufficiency of the accusation was not impaired by elimination of the two counts.

Davis cited the case of James S. Reed, in Trinity court, decided by the state supreme court, and the same court's decision in an ouster case against W. T. Shepard, Stockton councilman. These cases hold against the defense theory, he asserted.

SCION OF WEALTHY FAMILY ENDS LIFE

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 22.—Walter Brooks McCormick, retired business man and relative of the prominent McCormick family of Chicago, committed suicide last night in his exclusive West Side apartment.

Ill health apparently was the cause. A .38 calibre revolver with one chamber discharged was lying by his side.

McCormick was a cousin of Col. Robert R. McCormick, Chicago publisher.

Court Dismisses Driving Charge

A reckless driving complaint against Mrs. Pauline E. Stephens of Placentia, involved in an automobile accident at 101 highway and Chapman avenue, near Orange, last October 12, was dismissed by Justice of Peace Kenneth Morrison today on recommendation of the district attorney's office.

Norbert Angel, 31, who lives at the Stephens home, 350 Santa Fe street, Placentia, was injured in the crash. Dismissal of the complaint followed trial of Rev. O. E. Laird of Redlands, who was involved in the same accident. The Rev. Mr. Laird was pronounced not guilty, following trial before Judge Morrison.

ment was born out by previous medical examinations. He also said that he was not in the house when Mrs. Stammer returned from the railway station, upsetting previous theories.

Upon leaving the house, he related, he recalled that he had entered with his glove off and remembered that he may have left fingerprints on the rear door.

He said he went back to the rear of the house with the intentions of erasing all traces of his entry, but was unable to find the broken glass because a heavy fog had settled close to the ground and it was too dark.

in half-hearted discussions of favorite classroom topics.

Busses which attempted to break through the blocked highways were forced to turn back, but state highway officials said they would be able to clear a route to the school by the midafternoon.

A $40,000 loss was estimated at Santa City where the grade school building burned. The students, forced to leave their heavy wraps behind them as they fled, organized into fire lines and marched from the structure without panic.

School busses rushed them to their homes.

INTENSE SUFFERING CAUSED BY COLD WAVE

CHICAGO, Jan. 22.—The middle west and east hoped today for relief from a record smashing cold wave which claimed at least 27 lives, tangled transportation, caused fires, closed schools and caused widespread suffering.

As the wind subsided and the storm moved eastward from its focal point in Minnesota and North Dakota, rising temperatures were forecast, to be accompanied by snow tonight and tomorrow.

International Falls, Minn., which yesterday had the coldest recording in its history at 55 below zero, had warmed up to 40 below today. Devil's Lake, N. D., which had a low of 38 below, registered 38. Minneapolis, which yesterday had an all-time record of 33 below, had 28 below with the mercury rising. Chicago had 18 below in the city and 24 below in the suburbs this morning.

Fight Blaze

Firemen at Franklin, Ind., fought all through the night at 18 below zero in a blaze which threatened the entire downtown district. Two were killed in a Chicago fire and firemen answered 172 other alarms at residences where vigorous stoking of furnaces overheated pipes and revealed defective flues.

An all-time record was set at Lexington, Ky., which had 15 below.

Temperatures in the east subsided with only 2 below in New York, 6 below at Harrisburg, Pa., zero in Philadelphia and nine above at Boston.

Drifting snow made roads in the middle west impassable. The Illinois highway department broadcast a warning over all radio stations to motorists not to drive over the highways except in the event of extreme emergency.

School buses in several places were stalled. Schools were closed in Chicago, rural Minnesota, and in parts of Illinois, Iowa and Wisconsin.

Milk Shortage

The tri-city area about Dubuque, Ia., reported a milk shortage impending because farmers were unable to travel the highways.

Air line passengers were among the most fortunate. Pilots arriving at Chicago reported temperatures were 15 above at high altitudes.

The deaths were distributed as follows: Indiana, 6; Iowa, 1; Minnesota, 4; Wisconsin, 6; Illinois, 6; Pennsylvania, 2; Kansas, 1; and Nebraska, 1.

Local Briefs

Elmer G. Giffiepie, 25, of Anaheim, and Vera May Meader, 18, of Placentia, have filed application for a marriage license in Riverside.

Yvonne Elake, three-year-old Garden Grove girl, has received an honorable mention certificate in a talent contest held recently by a Los Angeles newspaper. She is a dance student of Vera M. Getty, and has appeared on numerous programs in Orange county.

Summer temperatures prevailed in Santa Ana yesterday according to records of the meteorological station at Santa Ana Junior college, when the maximum reached 80 at 2 p. m. The minimum was 49 at 6 a. m. Relative humidity at 3 p. m. was 21 per cent and the average wind velocity for the day was 3.5 m.p.h.

Mrs. C.W. Groeling Called by Death

Mrs. Christina Wagner Groeling, 33, mother of Mrs. H. C. Nelson, of Santa Ana, died this morning at the Nelson home, 525 South Rose street. Funeral services will be held at Ingelwood cemetery, Saturday at 2 p. m. with the Rev. J. L. Cameron, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Elsinore, officiating. Arrangements are being made by Smith and Tuttle mortuary.

Mrs. Groeling, who was born in Muscatine, Iowa, had lived in California for the past 15 years. Three years ago she moved to Santa Ana and had, since that time, made her home with Mrs. Nelson, who is the only surviving member of her family.

der this appropriation," Bell wrote, "shall include, but shall not be limited to, rental and benefit payments, removal of surplus agricultural commodities and the products thereof, expenditures for rent and personal services in the District of Columbia and elsewhere."

The secretary of agriculture would be empowered to make payments in an amount which he determines to be fair and equitable to farmers, who have applied for contracts, and who prior January 6, have in good faith complied with regulations of the secretary of agriculture in connection with a crop program regardless of whether contracts have been signed.

Otherwise the appropriation cannot be applied for rental or benefit payment on adjustment contracts after January 6.

Canzoneri Meets Mexican Fighter

NEW YORK, Jan. 22. — Tony Canzoneri, lightweight champion, making his first start this year, meets Breelo Garcia of Mexico in a 10-round non-title bout at the Star Casino tonight. Though it is his first match in three months, he is favored.

BURGLARY ATTEMPTS FOILED AT ORANGE

Thieves had a bad day yesterday in Orange as they failed in three burglary attempts, according to Orange police reports filed today.

M. Zeller's Scottie dog, "Max," came to the rescue at the Zeller home, 317 North Shaffer street, at 1 a. m. yesterday when he surprised thieves who had just broken the garage door lock. The surprised thieves defended themselves by hurling lemons at "Max," some of the lemons striking against the building and awakening Zeller.

Chased by "Max," the thieves dashed away into the darkness. Officers V. G. Wolfe and Tommy Towns investigated, "congratulating" "Max" for his assistance.

Surprised while prowling about the home of Walter Leichtfus, 150 North Harwood at 7:20 o'clock last night, a would-be thief escaped as Leichtfus investigated. At 9:56 Leichtfus investigated. At 9:56 25 years old, was surprised while attempting a burglary at the Ray Williams home, 460 South Pixley, but ran when Williams attempted to question him, according to Officer James Johnson who investigated.

WIFE SEEKING COURT RULING ON PROPERTY

The latest of myriad court maneuvers during the 13 years of litigation between Mrs. Louise Pillsbury and her husband, W. H. Pillsbury, Anaheim ice dealer, from whom she was awarded separate maintenance in 1924, and again in 1925, was the filing in superior court today of her motion to divide their community property.

Under a judgment made March 23, 1925, the Pillsbury property was declared community, and part of it was held subject to a life estate interest of Laura Belle Resh, business associate of Pillsbury. Mrs. Pillsbury appealed from that portion of the judgment.

In her motion today she asked that the remaining portion of the community property be divided, and that, in the event her appeal is sustained and Mrs. Resh's interest terminated, that portion of the property also be divided. She expressed the opinion that the practical way of dividing the property would be by partitioning it.

The Pillsbury suit was first brought in court in 1923.

Pillsbury's attorneys today filed notice that they will ask tomorrow that hearing of the wife's motion be continued, because Pillsbury's state of health will not permit him to attend the proceedings.

NEW OFFICERS ELECTED BY JAYCEE WOMEN

Mary Lou McFarland, daughter of the Rev. G. S. McFarland, 303 Orange avenue, was elected president of Associated Women students at an election held at the Santa Ana Junior college campus yesterday. Mrs. Robert Northcross, dean of women, announced today.

Miss McFarland, social commissioner of the Associated students for the past semester and a member of Spinners and several honorary societies, defeated Helen Wilke, a member of Las Meninas, for the position. Other officers elected were Mary Paxton for vice president winning over Adella McVey, and Louise Sexton for secretary-treasurer, who defeated Ruth Kilbourne of Orange. Both candidates for vice president are members of Las Gitanas and Miss Sexton served as secretary of the Associated students during the past semester.

Officers who have served for the past semester are Dorothy Coe, president; Eunice Spicer, vice president; and Helen Wilke, secretary-treasurer. Mrs. Northcross is faculty advisor for the organization. Activities of the A. W. S. are a tea given for new women students, a Mothers' tea, a women's choice dance to be held February 29, and an annual Hi-Jinks.

This semester officers will take charge of furnishing the women's lounge with the money furnished for the purpose from proceeds of Penny Fair.

ANTI-CRIME FILM, MUSICAL COMEDY NOW AT BROADWAY

"Show Them No Mercy!" great anti-crime film featuring Rochelle Hudson, Edward Norton and other popular players, opens an engagement at the Broadway theater today with a second feature, "Broadway Hostess."

"Show Them No Mercy!" is a searing indictment of crime, a visual argument to the effect that those who live by violence must come to a violent ending. Miss Hudson and Norton enact the young couple trapped in the cabin of a gang of murderous abductors. The principal gangster roles are taken by Cesar Romero and Bruce Cabot. Although primarily a film directed against crime, the picture is interspersed with moments of hilarious comedy and tender romance.

"Broadway Hostess" is a stirring comedy drama with music, hilarious comedy, dramatic thrills, catchy songs and unique spectacles with hundreds of beautiful girls. Wini Shaw, Phil Regan, Lyle Talbot, Genevieve Tobin, Alice Jenkins, Spring Byington and other favorites are in the cast.

Receiving a suspended sentence of one year in the county jail when found guilty by Superior Judge James L. Allen yesterday of possession of firearms by an alien, Jesus Macias nevertheless went to jail to serve a year, this being another sentence imposed by Justice K. E. Morrison, on a charge of non-support.

Justice Morrison had originally granted probation to Macias, on condition that he pay $6 per week to the support of his family. Subsequently a $200 bond was posted to guarantee the payments.

Recently, for asserted violation of terms of probation, Justice Morrison revoked the probation order and ordered Macias sent to jail to serve the term for non-support. The $200 bond was forfeited, and payments are being made from it for the support of the defendant's family.

In view of the justice court punishment, Judge Allen, at the recommendation of Assistant District Attorney James L. Davis, decided to suspend the sentence of the upper court on the other charge.

SEEKS DIVORCE

Cruelty of her husband finally forced her to leave him, Mrs. Cleo M. Buchanan, of Huntington Beach, alleged in a divorce suit filed late yesterday in superior court against Hugh E. Buchanan. The Buchanans were married at Basin, Wyoming, August 9, 1923, and separated January 13, this year. Besides a divorce, the wife asks alimony and $100 attorney fees.

TRANSFER DIVORCE SUIT TO ORANGE COUNTY COURTS

Transferred from Los Angeles county on a charge of venue granted to the defendant, the divorce suit of Mrs. Mildred E. Gistler against Ernest H. Gistler, Huntington Beach bean grower, was filed today in superior court here.

Besides naming the husband, the suit also lists the First National Bank of Santa Ana, and Allen T. and Floreal Gistler as defendants. The suit asks for half of funds, estimated at $1000, said to be deposited in the bank, and a division of the half interest she and her husband own in a 155-acre bean ranch at Huntington Beach. Allen and Floreal Gistler own the other half of the ranch.

WOMAN AND CHILD BITTEN BY DOG

Mrs. Jose Ylerios and the child of Mr. and Mrs. Jack DeLeon of Lewis court, Orange, were being treated today for injuries received last night when a dog bit them.

Mrs. Ylerios was treated at Orange county hospital, after her ankle became badly swollen, while the child was treated at home. Officer John Eltiste of Orange, who investigated the case, tied the dog up for observation. He said the animal belonged to Ralph Ramada, who also lives at Lewis court.

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD FOR PIONEER

Funeral services were held in Downey this week for Mrs. Martha Sumler Johnson, a resident of Orange county from early girlhood, who lived with her husband, John Johnson, in this vicinity for many years. Mrs. Johnson's parents owned the land where Garden Grove now stands. She was born in Amador county.

Mrs. Johnson passed away the latter part of the week in Downey in the home of her daughter, where she had lived for the past two years. Other survivors are two sons, Ben Johnson of Orange, and Thomas Johnson of Modjeski's; two daughters, Mrs. Ruby DeLor of Yucaipa and Mrs. Ada Lukens of Pasadena.

MODEL PLANE BUILDERS FORM ORGANIZATION

More than 40 boys attended the organization meeting of a model airplane club last night in the Y. M. C. A. building and 30 charter members of the club were signed up.

The Fullerton Hawks were in charge of the preliminary organization, and from now on the local club will operate under the leadership of its own officers.

Gordon Knight, of Orange, was elected president of the boys' club, and James Adams, of Santa Ana, was named secretary. The club is under the advisement of Bob Gerwing.

The meeting last night was opened with a talk by Dr. George McClelland, of Fullerton, who outlined the aims of a model aircraft club. He gave the boys a general idea of what they should be able to do in building and flying model airplanes. His talk was followed by the showing of two reels of motion pictures depicting model airplanes in flight and doing stunts.

A gasoline model plane was displayed at the meeting, and was inspected by the boys.

The next meeting will be held in the Y. M. C. A. building at 7 p. m., January 28, anyone wishing to join the club may do so at that time, it was announced. There will be no dues and a suitable name will be selected and future activities discussed.

MAN WHO WALKED OUT OF JAIL TO GET HEADACHE POWDER GETS SENTENCE FOR NON-SUPPORT

T. R. Cryer, the man who walked out of county jail last week in a "caravan" of other prisoners but who walked right back in again a few moments later in custody of Deputy Jailer Frank Cagle who followed and took him into custody, was sentenced to six months in the jail today when he faced Justice of Peace Kenneth Morrison on a charge of failure to support his minor child.

The actual sentence given was one year with six months suspended, with a two-year probation period to follow, in which Cryer must not take a drink of liquor nor violate any law. During the jail term, Judge Morrison declared Cryer must be put to work. Orange county will provide $15 per month for support of Cryer's child during the incarceration.

"How was it that you attempted to escape from the jail last week?" Judge Morrison asked.

"I didn't escape," Cryer explained. "I merely walked out. I had a headache and was going down the street to get medicine for it, that's all. It was the first time I was in jail and I didn't figure I was escaping."

The charge of escape was dismissed by the judge on recommendation of the district attorney's office which reported it would be "furtherance of justice."

PROGRAM HELD BY CAPISTRANO CLUB

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, Jan. 23.—Members of the San Juan Capistrano Woman's club enjoyed a program of book reviews and talks at their regular monthly session Tuesday afternoon. Luncheon was served at 1 o'clock to 40 members and guests by the hostesses, Mesdames F. E. Jinnett, Fred Storchheim, Ernest Cady, F. F. Kelly and Doris Lewis.

The president, Mrs. Aaron Buchheim, introduced T. W. Billips who gave a short talk on behalf of the Boy Scouts of the community. Mrs. E. A. Nydegger, social chairman, announced that the club had been asked to co-operate with the Men's club in sponsoring the Roosevelt birthday party. A dance has been planned and Mrs. E. A. Nydegger appointed a committee to work with her on the affair. A benefit card party will be held February 22, Mrs. M. E. Walters, chairman of the bridge section, will be in charge.

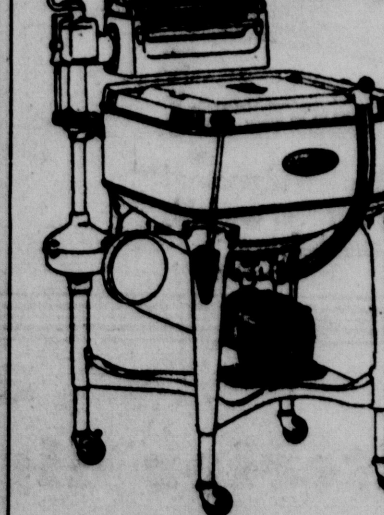

At 2:30 the program chairman, Mrs. Buddy Forster and Mrs. Russell Cook, chairman of the Literary section, took charge. Miss Margaret DeJong, in charge of the local library, introduced Miss Dorothy Wents, county librarian, who gave four interesting book reviews. Books reviewed were "My Country and My People," by Dr. Lin Yutang; "Living High," by Alicia Overbeck; "If This Be I," by Margaret Deland and "Old Jew- eils," by Mari Zandoo.

FIREMEN TO GET NEW TRUCK SOON

MIDWAY CITY, Jan. 23.—State fire truck equipment will be turned over to the Midway City Firemen's association next Monday, it was announced at a meeting of the association in the home of H. Cook this week. The building is nearly completed. A total of $450 has been donated for the building work, with $200 more needed. Local firemen have done most of the work on the structure. Necessary road work in front of the building will be done by the county. Ray Suess was added as an active member of the fire department and C. C. McWhinney, owner of Westminster Memorial park, who has given a 20-year lease for the site of the fire hall, and C. M. Rood, a large contributor to the building fund, were made honorary members. A motion thanking all who in any way contributed to the building activity was made and carried.

BREAKFASTERS ENJOY MUSIC, DANCE PROGRAM

Members of the Santa Ana Breakfast club enjoyed a program of music and dancing at the regular weekly meeting held this morning in the Main cafeteria.

Floyd Haskell, program chairman of the day, introduced Bruce Buell, who sang two numbers, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Buell. Buell is from the Visei studios.

Madeline Woodruff also from the Visei studios, played a violin solo, accompanied at the piano by her sister, Betty Woodruff.

Lorrie Buell, from the Putman dance studio, was featured in three tap dances. She was accompanied by Mrs. Buell.

President Milan M. Miller, who presided, appointed Joel Ogilvie to act as program chairman for next week's meeting.

Following the entertainment program, members of the club held a round table discussion on future activities of the Breakfast club.

Former Talbert Minister Freed In Driving Case

The Rev. O. E. Laird, formerly of Talbert, now of Redlands, was acquitted in Justice of Peace Kenneth Morrison's court yesterday on a complaint of reckless driving.

The Rev. Mr. Laird, who is 67, was ticketed by State Highway Patrolmen Horace E. Inge and George Peterkin following a traffic accident last October 12 at 101 highway and Chapman avenue, near Orange, when Norbert Angel, 21, 350 Santa Fe street, Placentia, was injured as the car in which he was riding, turned over. Mrs. Pauline E. Stephens, 28, of the Placentia address, also was ticketed for reckless driving and her case is pending before Judge Morrison.

During court testimony, the Rev. Mr. Laird and his son, Sam, of Philadelphia, who was with him at time of accident, and whose deposition was read, contended they were traveling 15 miles per hour as they made a left turn into Chapman and 5 miles per hour at time of collision, and that Mrs. Stephens was traveling from 45 to 60 miles per hour as she approached. Mrs. Stephens and her witnesses contended the Laird car was traveling from 40 to 45 miles per hour and failed to give the signal as he attempted a left turn and that Mrs. Stephens herself was traveling along 101 highway only 35 to 45 miles per hour. The traffic officers and Deputy District Attorney Clarence Sprague contended the Rev. Mr. Laird was reckless since his car continued over a set of railroad tracks and a 16-inch embankment after the crash, "showing too much speed."

Judge Morrison ruled: "Unless further evidence is shown at the subsequent trial (of Mrs. Stephens), as regards this case, Reverend Laird is not guilty because it has not been shown that he showed a wanton disregard for the safety of others in connection with this accident." The minister was represented by Attorney Ray H. Overacker.

Iowa Publisher Visiting in S. A.

W. G. Smith, publisher of a string of weekly papers in Northwestern Iowa and South Dakota, and wife, are here from Rock Rapids, Iowa, to spend a month or so. They also will spend some time later with relatives in Sacramento and Santa Rosa. They motored out via El Paso, the Grand Canyon and Boulder Dam. Dr. and Mrs. J. J. Maloney, also of Rock Rapids, motored out with them and will spend the balance of the winter at the home of his brother, Dan E. Maloney, 930 South Broadway.

Worried? You'd Never Think It of Late AAA Chiefs

Little would an observer have suspected the load of care that rested on the shoulders of Chester Davis, standing, left, administrator of the late AAA, and the smiling secretary of agriculture, Henry A. Wallace, beside him, as they looked over the group of farm representatives assembled in Wallace's office. The two government officials were presiding over a conference out of which they hope a solution of the farm problem will emerge. Wallace warned the farm leaders that a great surplus of corn and cotton might be expected unless a production program was adopted immediately and his stand was backed by President Roosevelt.

BOY PROVES HOT SPRINTER— WHEN HE GETS THE CHANCE!

When three-year-old Dickie Holmes walked into a neighbor's closed back porch, he didn't know he was walking straight into a trap. The door swung shut behind him; the latch on the door closed tight and when Dickie wanted to go home—since the neighbors weren't home anyhow—he couldn't. His little hands couldn't work the latch.

Mrs. G. B. Holmes, 1238 South Ross street, his mother, came to his rescue but that didn't seem to do so much good. She couldn't get in the house and Dickie couldn't get out. A call for help via police radio, brought Motorcycle Officers Ed Lentz and George Boyd to assist in the rescue. As the husky officers were preparing to crawl through a window, they pleaded once more with Dickie to "push down" on the latch.

Suddenly Dickie succeeded, his eyes popped, he stopped weeping. Pushing open the door, Dickie flashed down the steps, scooted between the officers like greased lightning, streaked it for home. The officers both believe Dickie probably will be better than a "Ten-Second Man" when he enters athletics—much later on.

Police Recover Man's Lost Purse

Albert Smith, Route 1, Anaheim, was a "happy man" today, according to police reports, as he was in possession of a purse which caused him a "right smart headache" last night.

Smith appeared at city police station at 12:40 a. m. today to explain to Acting Desk Sergeant Paul Cozad that he had dropped his wallet inside the West Coast theater, he thought, and was afraid someone would find it before he did. Merchant Patrolman Bert Dawson was assigned to assist Smith. The wallet was recovered and Smith left the station a happy man. Officer Cozad's report declared.

National Plan Of W.C.T.U. Endorsed

LA HABRA, Jan. 23.—The La Habra W. C. T. U., which met this week at the home of Mrs. Myra Hibbs on North Main street, went on record as sponsoring the national five-year, four-point program of the W. C. T. U., and using a part of their dues to raise funds for the program.

This program includes the establishment of a training school for teachers at Evanston, Ill., the W. C. T. U. headquarters; establishment of a research library on temperance; production of motion pictures along temperance lines and highway signs.

The local group also spent some time studying laws concerning the state control of the liquor problem.

Runaway Youth is Apprehended Here

Pausing from the day's occupation, which was running away from a boys' lodge in San Fernando, a 14-year-old youth was apprehended at 1:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, as he sat pensively on the stairway of the Bank of America building here.

The youth, who originally hailed from Long Beach, was turned over to juvenile authorities and was reported as having a good night's sleep here last night. He will be turned over to custody of Los Angeles juvenile officials today. The youth left San Fernando yesterday morning and hitch-hiked to Santa Ana, on the first "leg" of a trip to satisfy the wanderlust.

WALKER'S OFFERS BUCK JONES FILM

Buck Jones faces a difficult situation in "The Deadline," which opens a two-day run on the screen of Walker's State theater tomorrow. It is that of fighting his way back to a position of respect and confidence in the community from which he has been sent to prison, wrongfully. How he works it out and clears his name provides a thrilling story, according to Manager Vic Walker.

The program also presents the first chapter of an exciting new serial, "The Phantom Empire"; a news reel, a comedy and a color cartoon, "Three Orphan Kittens."

The Kiddies club holds its regular session at the theater at 1 p. m. Saturday.

Final showings of "Alice Adams" with Katherine Hepburn, and "The Scoundrel" with Noel Coward, are scheduled tonight.

START DRIVE ON ALL-NIGHT PARKING

A campaign to eliminate all-night parking on Santa Ana city streets went into full swing yesterday, according to records on file at city police headquarters, which show 38 automobiles ticketed between 2 and 5 a. m.

The cars, ticketed generally throughout the city, were parked in violation of the city ordinance which prohibits all-night parking.

Officer C. V. Adams ticketed 21, Officer W. B. Moreland, 9 and Hunter Leach, 8, the records show.

Huntington Beach Oil Production Due For Cut

CONFERENCE OF OPERATORS SET FOR TOMORROW

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Jan. 23.—Oil producers here have been notified by their local field committee that a production curtailment of between 10 and 20 per cent will have to be put on the field if the price of crude is to be sustained by the buying companies.

The cut will likely fall heaviest on the larger producers and the cut on wells under 50 barrel daily production is not expected to be more than 10 per cent.

The crude oil purchasing companies state the production exceeds the winter demand for gasoline. There is said to be a heavy storage and also a heavy demand for oil on hand.

A meeting will be held at city hall tomorrow by the producers in the field to determine the extent of the oil curtailment. The curtailment is to extend to all fields of the state, it is claimed. For several months there has been no curtailment of crude oil production and the market is now saturated, it is claimed, and a return to curtailment is necessary, although the curtailment will be light as compared with that in effect for two years, when curtailment reached as high as 40 to 60 per cent.

COAST GROUP TO MEET NEXT MONTH

SEAL BEACH, Jan. 23.—Newly elected directors of the Orange County Coast association will plan their program for the year at an executive meeting to be held February 8, at Newport Beach. Notices of the meeting were sent out by Mayor E. J. Hughes, of this city, who was elected president of the organization.

The new officers who were seated Tuesday night at a meeting of the association are: L. F. Kimmell, Laguna Beach, first vice president; Carl Hankey, San Juan Capistrano, second vice president; Judge C. P. Patton, Huntington Beach, third vice president; and Harry Welch, Newport Beach, secretary.

Included in plans for the year will be a program of cooperation with the California Beaches association, in promoting the welfare of the beaches. This cooperation was promised Dr. Floyd Beckwith, president of the California Beaches group, at the last meeting of the Coast association.

BROTHERHOOD TOLD OF JUICE INDUSTRY

GARDEN GROVE, Jan. 23.—Members of the Garden Grove brotherhood were addressed by Henry C. HOLD PROGRAM FOR PLACENTIA P.-T. A. GROUP

PLACENTIA, Jan. 23.—A triple program was offered at the Placentia Grammar school Parent-Teacher association meeting Wednesday under direction of the president, Mrs. Frank Hill, and the program chairman, Mrs. E. J. Powers.

During the first afternoon session, the women agreed to hold Red Cross safety training classes. The first meeting will be Monday in the Round Table clubhouse, where further plans will be made.

The meeting opened at noon in the cafeteria of the school, where the executive board held a luncheon. Following this the Red Cross meeting was held, with Dr. C. F. W. Kohlenberger, of Fullerton, as speaker. Mrs. Warren, Orange county director, also talked at the meeting.

The executive board voted to hold the next meeting February 27 instead of February 26, due to the county meeting at Brea.

When the full membership meeting was called at 3 p. m., A. P. Patten, superintendent of schools, talked on the building program and following that Mrs. Augusta Day, school nurse, and Dr. Sarah M. Fay, of Anaheim, discussed dental hygiene.

Music for the last program was provided by the high school band directed by R. Rundsvold and the Valencia High school girls' chorus directed by Miss Doris Redfern.

Former Resident Of Island Weds

BALBOA ISLAND, Jan. 23.—Word has been received here of the wedding of Mrs. Marguerite Wiley Matthews, formerly a resident of Orange, formerly to Frederick Emil Miller, of Danby, Calif. The marriage services took place at Kingman, Ariz., the Reverend Mr. Grande, pastor of the Methodist church in that city, performing the rites.

Mrs. Matthews was well known in civic and social circles, being a member of Christ Church By the Sea, a member of the local Ebell club and an active worker in the P.-T. A. and the Balboa circle of the Woman's Aid society.

Mrs. Matthews' son, Frank Matthews; her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Wiley, and a sister, Mrs. Ardell Kimball, all of Essex, Calif., attended the wedding.

THE STRANGE CASE OF JULIA CRAIG

BEGIN HERE TODAY
JULIA CRAIG, pretty young secretary to the law firm of Woodford and Brooks, is ambitious to become a nurse. Julia shares an apartment with AMY SANDERS. PETER KEMP, also employed by Woodford and Brooks, is in love with Julia, but she discourages his attentions. He gives Julia a letter of introduction to HENRI LAMB, band leader, but she tells Peter everything is not as it seems.

Woodford tells Julia he is giving a party on his yacht and asks her to come along to sing for his guests. She agrees to the party, but she does not give her a job. Julia discovers this and tells Peter everything is not as it seems.

WATER REPORT IS PRESENTED IN YORBA LINDA

YORBA LINDA, Jan. 23.—No time is to be wasted if Yorba Linda and other Southern California communities are to get adequate water for continued growth, according to C. C. Elder, hydrographic engineer of the Metropolitan Water district.

Elder discussed the district and the anticipated enlargement of the plans for distribution of water at the meeting of the annual Yorba Linda Water company Tuesday afternoon at Masonic hall.

He was introduced by J. E. Lewis, superintendent of the Yorba Linda company, who gave the outline of the year's activity. A. B. McDavid presided at the meeting.

Because a quorum of shares was not represented, no business was transacted and the directors were held over another year.

In his report, Lewis said the Yorba Linda Water company pumped more than 18 acre inches during the past year, about four per cent more water than was pumped in 1934.

Underground water levels are now 103 feet from the surface, having lowered about 20 feet since the season started, he said. He reported on a new well and the laying of about 7500 feet of new pipe.

He warned that those interested in water should watch carefully legislation that is presented for voters, seeing to it that legislation controls development of lands to be watered since "we are overdeveloped now."

A. B. McDavid is president and S. H. McCracken vice president of the board of directors. Other members are C. W. Morris, E. J. Herbst, M. J. Hammon, S. L. Marshburn and H. A. MacClatchie and J. E. Lewis is superintendent and J. W. Murray secretary.

Singers To Give Church Program

YORBA LINDA, Jan. 23.—The Cotton Blossom singers from Piney Woods, Miss., will present a program at the Yorba Linda Methodist church at 7:30 o'clock tonight, according to announcement of the Rev. J. Hunter Smith, pastor. A silver offering will be taken.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller will make their home in Danby, where Mr. Miller is employed.

El Toro Group Sponsors Dinner

EL TORO, Jan. 23.—The El Toro Woman's club sponsored a community dinner at the hall recently honoring Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Saltier, who have returned to this community after many years absence, and Mrs. W. H. English, who is leaving to make her home near Modesto.

The honorees were presented with framed oil paintings, the work of Mrs. L. F. Moulton. Over 100 persons were present. Mrs. F. M. Nelson, club president, and Mrs. J. H. Taylor, Mrs. Eugene Ahern, Mrs. Richard Harris, Mrs. F. G. Drews, Mrs. Louis Robinson, Mrs. Powell West, Mrs. Warren Gray, Mrs. John Osterman, Mrs. W. V. Whisler, Mrs. Minnie Hafner, and Mrs. Hiram Whisler and Mrs. George Fox were in charge.

ROTARY CLUBS TO HEAR ADDRESS ON NATIONAL DEFENSE

LAGUNA BEACH, Jan. 23.—Rear Admiral W. T. Cluverius, with headquarters on his flagship, USS Argonne, will be the guest of honor and speaker at a luncheon Friday, to be held at the White House cafe under the joint auspices of the Fullerton and Laguna Beach Rotary clubs.

Admiral Cluverius will speak on "National Defense," with particular reference to naval and air forces. A capacity attendance is being arranged for by those in charge. Many Rotarians are expected to attend from Fullerton under leadership of Dr. C. C. Cowles, who was responsible for securing the presence of Admiral Cluverius at the luncheon.

La Habra Group Holds Card Party

LA HABRA, Jan. 23.—The January committee of the La Habra Woman's Improvement club sponsored a dessert-bridge party Tuesday afternoon under the chairmanship of Mrs. L. H. Brewer. Sweet peas were used in decorating the club rooms and the small tables where the dessert course was served.

Both contract and auction bridge were played during the afternoon, with prizes being awarded to Mrs. Charles Walker and Mrs. D. A. Field in contract and to Mrs. Flora Rhodes and Mrs. James Black in auction.

"No..." Bakely shook his head. "We'll be pretty well secluded up there."

Julia laughed easily. "Suppose something happened and we wanted to get in touch with the city?"

"That's not likely. But the vessel is equipped with radio-telephone."

"I see..." Julia moved from the chart table and nearer to the wheel where Bakely stood. "I'd like to see the radio-telephone some time."

Bakely looked at her. "That room's always locked, Miss Craig. Mr. Woodford doesn't allow any messages to go through without his permission."

"Well, I suppose I'll have to get his permission." She sighed. "I think I'll drift along to bed now. Good night, Captain Bakely."

"Good night, Miss Craig..."

In the privacy of her stateroom Julia wondered whether she had made any impression on Bakely. She doubted if she could count on him against Woodford. Obviously the yacht was under the rigid regimentation of the owner, slowly she began to realize that Woodford could not have more successfully imprisoned her had he arranged for her incarceration in some isolated castle.

There was nothing for her to do but make the best of it. Anger was useless. But she resolved that once she had returned to the city she would leave Woodford and Brooks. And when that was done, she would face without compromise the problem of doing something with her talent.

BEACH P.-T. A. MEMBERS HEAR TALK ON BOOKS

SEAL BEACH, Jan. 23.—Challenging the man to live a fuller and more useful life through reading the best available books on the various sciences, economics, drama and religion, the Rev. Chester R. Lewis, pastor of the Community Methodist church, addressed members of Seal Beach Parent-Teacher association at their regular January meeting Tuesday afternoon in the school auditorium.

To create a taste for good literature in our children we must surround them with good literature, he pointed out.

Stimulating suggestions for reading listed by the speaker included books on archeology, biography, drama, fiction, religion. A volume of the Bible translated in contemporary English instead of the King James version done some 300 years ago he recommended particularly for readers who have difficulty in interpreting.

The Founder's day meeting, scheduled for February 4, was postponed to the evening of February 11, in order to avoid conflict with a special Townsend club meeting also to be held on the first Tuesday in February.

A special appeal to P.-T.A. members to subscribe to the magazines published by the state and national organizations to bring the local subscription list up to the 10 per cent of total membership required for standard rating was made by Mrs. Glenn Pierpont, magazine chairman. Membership in the local unit is now 73, according to Mrs. J. N. Scott, membership chairman.

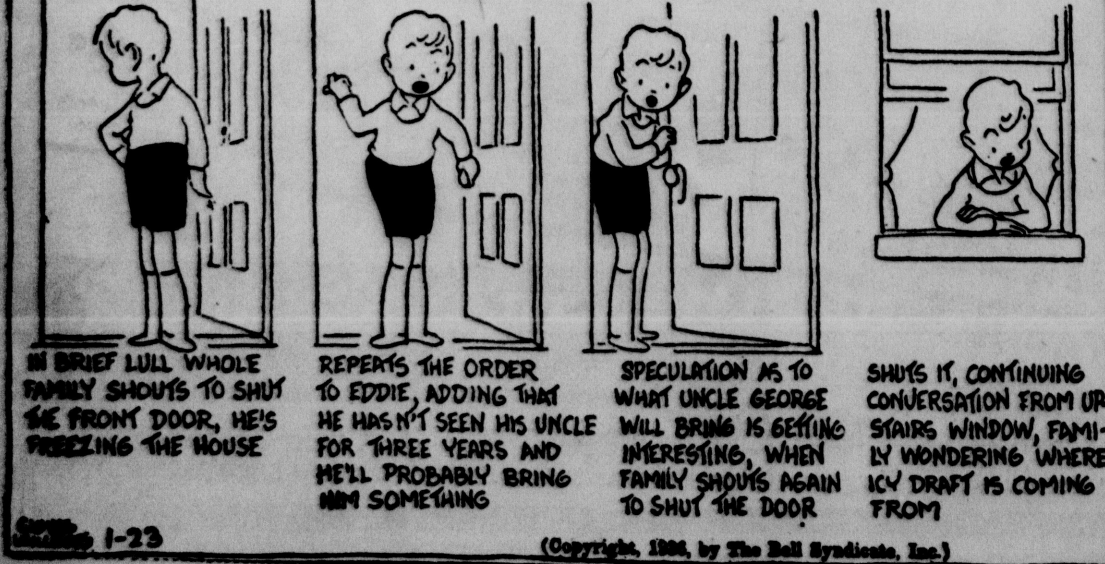

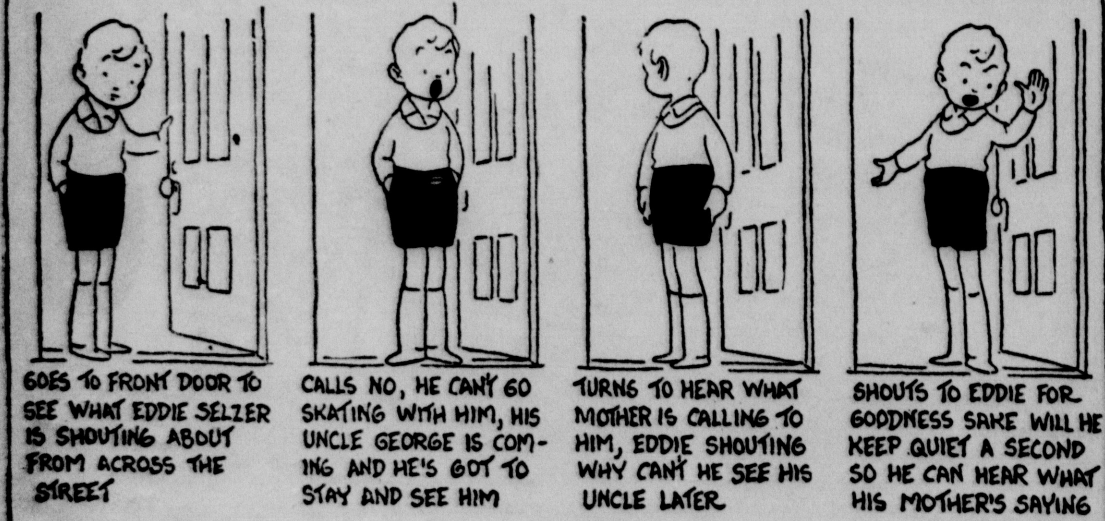

Student entertainment was presented by girls of the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades, in folk dances and songs, directed by Miss Trout.

H. B. BROTHERHOOD TO HEAR ADDRESS

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Jan. 23.—The Brotherhood of the Methodist church will meet in the church dining hall for their monthly dinner this evening. The dinner will be served at 6:30 o'clock by members of the Ladies Aid.

The Rev. S. J. Rogers, former pastor of the local church, who is now retired, will address the group.

In the premier stock car test of the country, thirty 1935 model motor cars recently battled for mileage in the 352-mile Gilmore-Yosemite Economy Run. Pictured above are some of the winners of the event according to results announced by American Automobile Association officials. (1) A. A. OFFICIALS PRESENT TROPHIES
TO WINNERS OF NATION'S GREATEST STOCK CAR EVENT

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK, Calif.—In the most sensational stock car mileage test ever made in America—the Gilmore-Yosemite Economy Run—a Graham supercharger six sedan, using Red Lion gasoline and Lion Head motor oil, broke all previous records for the event with a ton-mile average of 55.39 winning the Sweepstakes Trophy and first place in Class 5-A. The Graham weighed 4160 pounds loaded with passengers and fuel and used 15.2 gallons of Red Lion gasoline for the 352-mile course—an actual mileage of 26.67 miles per gallon.

Thirty 1935 model automobiles, representing nearly every American make of car, were entered in this mileage test under the direction of the American Automobile Association. Evidence of the wonderful gasoline economy made by these beautiful new cars lies in the fact that the average mileage of the thirty cars entered was 22.473 miles per gallon. The total miles traveled by all the cars on the run was 10,560, involving two climbs to over 4,000 feet elevation in a driving rain and during the entire run these cars used only a total of one pint of Lion Head motor oil.

Awards for the most economical cars were made on the basis of ton miles. This is computed by multiplying the weight of the car in tons by the distance traveled and dividing by the total amount of gasoline used. This is done to properly take into consideration the load the car pulls.

MORE CARS COMPETE

Prior to the revival of this famous economy run from Los Angeles to Yosemite National Park this year under the auspices of Gilmore, the largest number of cars making the run in any year was in 1921 when 21 cars were entered. This year thirty sleek 1935 models made the 352-mile mountain jaunt all within the new time limit of thirteen hours. And the two "runners-up" for the Sweepstakes Trophy, the Chrysler Airflow 8, winner of Class 7-A with a mileage of 26.55 ton-miles per gallon, and the Studebaker Dictator 6, winner of Class 4-A with the record of 50.98 ton-miles per gallon, also broke the ton-mile record to Yosemite as well as the trophy-winning Hamlin entry. Actual mileage made by the Chrysler Airflow 8, with a loaded weight of 5820 pounds, was 18.33 miles per gallon and the Studebaker Dictator 6, with a loaded weight of 4200 pounds, made an actual economy record of 24.28 miles per gallon.

MANY RECORDS FALL

Former performance marks for the run started tumbling from the moment car number 33, a four-cylinder Willys sedan weighing 2610 pounds loaded, driven by L. T. Sollender, arrived at 2:12 P. M. to win the trophy for being the last to leave the starter's line and the first to finish.

Although hampered by a minor accident on the highway, the Graham Crusader 6 won first place trophy in Class 2-A with 47.61 ton-miles per gallon or an actual mileage of 25.33 miles per gallon. Top honors in Class 3-A went to a Pontiac 6 with 47.89 ton-miles or actual mileage of 23.95 miles per gallon. Studebaker Dictator 6 won a handsome trophy in Class 4-A with ton-miles of 50.98 and actual mileage of 24.28 miles per gallon.

Another Studebaker, the President 8, turned in the best ton-mile performance for Class 6-A, one of the most highly competitive divisions in the entire battle for economical performance. This President 8, weighing 4750 pounds with passengers and baggage, made a ton-mile record of 48.63 or actual mileage of 20.35 miles per gallon. In Class 7-A for cars in the $1600 to $1800 price bracket a Chrysler Airflow 8 sedan won first honors. The Airflow 8, weighing 5820 pounds loaded, made a ton-mile average of 53.35 miles per gallon or actual mileage of 18.33.

PROVING Amazing
GASOLINE MILEAGE

Recent Studebaker advertising has emphasized the amazing gasoline mileage of the 1936 Dictator 6 and President 8 models. A public, confused by many conflicting statements concerning gasoline mileage, will therefore welcome proof of Studebaker's claims as established by the findings of the American Automobile Association in the recent 352-mile Yosemite Economy Run of the Gilmore Oil Co.

As the final report shows, Studebaker scored two smashing firsts in the two price classes in which it was entered and in addition was awarded Third place (Dictator 6) and Fifth place (President 8) in the Grand Sweepstakes event in which 30 cars of all classes, sizes, weights and prices competed, including three very small 4 cylinder cars.

In class 4-A a Studebaker Dictator Six won an outstanding first place with a score of 50.9, figured on a per ton mile basis, which, expressed in the average motorist's day-to-day language, means 24.27 miles per gallon of gasoline.

In class 6-A the big Studebaker President Eight showed a definite margin of superiority over its competitors by establishing a score of 48.65 on a per ton mile basis, or 20.34 miles per gallon of gasoline. We cordially invite any one interested in 1936 model motor cars to visit our Show Rooms and inspect these magnificent cars. We proudly claim them to be as outstandingly beautiful as they are amazingly economical. Their gasoline economy claims now stand proved by the results of this great AAA sanctioned Gilmore Yosemite Economy Run. Their beauty your own good taste will concede. Their flashing performance, comfort, roading qualities and the super-safety of their steel, steel-reinforced and insulated bodies are assured by three decades of Studebaker prestige, the natural result of master craftsmanship. The champions are still champions.

C. S. Beesmyer, Vice-President and General Manager Gilmore Oil Company, presenting cup to driver of Studebaker Dictator Six which won first place in recent 352-mile Gilmore Yosemite Economy Run. A similar cup, likewise for first place, was awarded to the Studebaker President Eight.

FARM POLITICS
SYRACUSE, N. Y., Jan. 23.—The most powerful farm leaders up here like inflation, and Borah. You may think that one of those two would be enough, but apparently not for them.

They attended the meeting of farm counselors held in Washington recently after the AAA breakdown, but were shunted into group meetings in which their voice was not the loudest. Nevertheless, you will notice, if you look up the file, that inflationary idea was mentioned in a somewhat pointed way in more than one of the general farm counselors' statements issued at that time. These went unnoticed in Washington during the majority rush for the soil conservation substitute.

What was apparently behind the pointed suggestion was the old commodity dollar theory. It was originally suggested by President Roosevelt, but shelved early in the New Deal. The fear of the country may have forgotten about it, but not the farm folks in this neck of the national woods.

RECALL
In this connection, train conductors noticed Prof. Warren on the Washington-bound sleeper once since the AAA decision. They saw him return to his Cornell University post shortly thereafter. Nothing about it appeared in the papers because the invisible professor has a way of getting in and out of Washington unnoticed.

Persons with long memories will recall he was the original commodity dollar man, but do not let that mean too much to you. He formerly taught Treasury Secretary Morgenthau. Mr. Morgenthau occasionally calls him in for private advice on a variety of monetary subjects.

It does not necessarily indicate that Mr. Morgenthau is toying again with the Warren theory. He is probably now interested in only one phase of it, and the White House may not be interested at all.

SPLIT
Best guess among the best guessers is that the largest of all state delegations to the coming Republican convention will be split three ways. They expect New York to be divided among Knox, Borah and Landon.

The Idaho farm orator will probably get the bulk of the upstate farm delegates. It is not generally known, but he has been playing ball with this crowd for many years.

The other two entries will split most of the rest, with Hoover having a poll.
Note—A poll conducted by a Watertown newspaper covering the northern portion of the state recently showed Gov. Landon of Kansas with 60 per cent of the vote. Borah was second, Hoover third.

FUNDAMENTALS
Here, in Syracuse, you can find some of the important particulars in the national bill of health. The generalities which you may have heard about relief, unemployment, business and politics can be reduced to specific provable fundamentals.

No. 1—The business outlook has perked up considerably since the turn of the year. One large factory is about to reopen and there is talk of reopening another. General Motors closed up its branch here when the depression slide started. It employed 3000 men at the pre-depression peak. Now it will open up on a smaller scale (employing about 300 at the start) to make headlights and fenders.

The old Franklin car was made here, until the depression stopped it. Now some negotiations are supposed to be under way, looking toward resumption of production.

These things make the local people think in entirely different terms than they have been thinking for the past few years.

RELIEF
The Syracuse relief load has been cut from a 1934 peak of 40,000 persons to about 25,000 currently. That means it has been reduced about half. If General Motors and Franklin could hit their peak, the entire relief roll could be absorbed. Of course, this is not in easy prospect.

The population of the city is about 230,000. Thus about 10 per cent is now on relief. The method and burden of handling them is a

BOWEL CLEANING POWER OF MOSBY'S TABLETS

One man recently took MOSBY'S TABLETS three days and said afterward that he never would have believed his body contained so much filthy substance. He says his stomach, intestines, bowels and whole system were so thoroughly cleansed that his constant headaches came to an end, several pimply skin eruptions on his face dried up overnight, and even the rheumatic pains in his knees disappeared. At present he is an altogether different man, feeling fine in every way.

BENEFITS IN 12 HOURS
MOSBY'S TABLETS neutralize acids in the stomach and bowels, expel gas, relieve pain, bloat, swelling. They give the bowels and intestines a GREY CLEANING and bring out the foul, acidulous filth that causes headaches, skin eruptions, foul breath, coated tongue, thick, bad taste and worn out feeling. Benefits come OVER NIGHT. Weak, miserable people often feel like different men and women in 12 HOURS TIME!

COSTS ONE CENT A DAY
MOSBY'S TABLETS cost little more than one cent a day. So don't go on suffering. Get Mosby's Tablets—FREE!—McCoy's Drug Stores, 104 E. Fourth or 202 West Fourth. Also sold by McCoy's Drug Stores in Whittier, Balboa, and Huntington Beach, and by all good druggists.—Adv.

main topic of political and private discussion.

WPA

Local WPA office was organized last July, but dallied until October. Real activity did not begin until a week before the election last November. Then 4000 relievers were transferred to work.

What they are doing now is mostly outdoor boondoggling, fixing up the parks, manuring the trees. The country has had one really worthwhile project, a sewage disposal plant. The city could do without the rest.

POLITICS

The connection between relief and politics seems to have been developed along thoroughly practical lines.

The mayor, Roland B. Marvin is a Republican, and in constant disagreement with WPA. He is serving his fourth consecutive term, and his friends say he will run for the Republican gubernatorial nomination. Mayor Marvin is mourning because the city cost of handling 5200 relief cases this year under WPA is higher than the cost of handling 9000 cases last year under direct relief. So much goes for materials. Also there are technical difficulties.

WPA is in charge of a New Deal administrator who has been quoted as saying he would fire anyone if the color of his necktie was unsatisfactory. So far, apparently, all tie shades have been satisfactory.

But there was some trouble just before the last election when New Dealers were canvassing voters and a few jobs were offered in return for votes. It would not have been so bad if they had not approached a Republican alderman (Harry Ostrander, 14th ward) and suggested he could get into a relief job by voting for the Democratic majority candidate.

You can imagine what he said, and how loudly he is still saying it.

WASHINGTON

By Ray Tucker

REFUSED

The American government's attempt to divulge secrets surrounding negotiation of the Versailles peace treaty and the League of Nations covenant has been blocked by objections of foreign governments—Great Britain, France, Italy. How the "big four"—Wilson, Lloyd George, Clemenceau, Orlando—squabbled and bargained behind the doors as they remapped the globe may never be known.

The United States has already published six installments of historic papers, including war orders, diplomatic cables, statesmen's memos. It is ready to make public another volume lifting the lid on grave events of 1918. There it must write "finis" to the chapter. European chancelleries flatly refuse permission to publish the inside history of 1919 deals that led to signing of the treaty and covenant.

Documents involving foreign governments cannot be published without their consent. Europe's leaders apparently fear that the revelations would brew new troubles on their disturbed continent. And whatever chance Secretary Hull had of changing their mind has been destroyed by the Nye committee's broadcasting of confidential files.

WESTERN

President Roosevelt's Republican rival never will be Governor Alf Landon of Kansas, or Sen. Arthur Vandenberg, of Michigan. The most likely GOP nominee for vice president is Frederick Steiwer, of Oregon.

These are the forecasts of Republican president-makers as a result of an exchange of views within the last month. They represent the ideas of eastern, middle and far western leaders who make a business of ascertaining how public sentiment is running. The round-up also results from a process of elimination. The GOP chiefs figure that Frank Knox, of Chicago, has "blown," to use their language, and that Senator Borah will back out of the race gracefully—as always.

The topnotch Republicans have no preference between the Kansas and Michigan candidates. Which they choose will depend on how the two wear with the public between now and June. But they want an all-western ticket to refute Democratic charges that eastern interests nominate the party. That's why they prefer Mr. Steiwer for second place rather than a Jimmie Wadsworth, Walter Edge or any other man who lives within 1000 miles of downtown Manhattan.

RABID
A flood of political literature pouring into party headquarters these days bears out Jim Farley's prediction that the 1936 presidential contest will be a "dirty campaign." The material is distributed anonymously on cheaply printed paper. It seems to represent the efforts of individuals or groups to vent their spleen.

One dodger revives the exploded charge that President Roosevelt headed a corporation to "speculate" in German marks in post-war days. The corporation's counsel, a pro-Hoover man, testified in 1932 that every investor drew out a profit from transferring declining marks into German securities. Another circular lists the president's "foreign advisers." It includes such distinguished names as Justices Brandies and Cardozo of the supreme court. A paper published at Atlanta is apparently designed to inflame southern white voters against the administration. One photograph shows a colored man sitting at a desk and the caption describes him as "confidential secretary to President Roosevelt." The only mistake is that the photographed figure happens to be Louis Howe's messenger boy.

POPULAR

Republican steerers in the house scratched their heads to find a place where Rep. Verner Main, of Michigan, would have no chance to smash the party's economic furniture. So they assigned the first avowed Townsendite to be sent to congress from east of the Rockies to three committees that will keep him busy—census, mines and mining and flood control.

Behind the scenes bosses on both sides of the aisle are handling the Townsend bloc with the utmost tenderness. Legislative timekeepers have allotted the $200-a-monther as many hours as they have counted off for members who argue that the doctor's program would bring on a dark day of economic judgment. Even his critics pay tribute to his sincerity, although they weep over his mathematics.

There's a reason for not antagonizing the Townsends. Two subjects predominate in congressional mailbags at this session—the Townsend plan and neutrality. But the demands for generous pensions outnumber anti-war pleas by three-to-one. The next most popular topic is the bonus. The letter-writers seem to have the "gimmie's."

COINCIDENCE

Although treasury spokesmen can't afford to advertise their anger, they're growing sensitive to whispers that they are using the income tax as a political bludgeon. To refute gossip that they withheld new tax assessments against Johnnie Raskob and Pierre duPont until the eve of the American Liberty league dinner in order to embarrass the anti-new dealers, they quote the record:

The income tax bureau's first demand for additional taxes on 1929 returns was levied on December 8, 1932—not, the Morgenthauers point out, six years after the two thought they had paid off Uncle Sam for that year. There have been intermittent petitions and amended answers ever since. In March, 1933, the government imposed a further levy on Mr. duPont based on losses sustained from sales of stock to Mr. Raskob.

Last November the bureau asked the United States board of tax appeals—a judicial body—for additional time to file an amended answer to Mr. duPont. Chairman Black extended the time until December 15, when the government petitioned for another extension. Chairman Black then named January 6 as the last day for federal action. Neither he nor the revenue men knew then that the league planned to stage its coming-out party on January 25. It appears to be just another political coincidence—or collusion.

INQUIRY

Now it's the communications commission which shrinks from a hot-water "probe." House members are gradually erasing party lines in a movement to open up its in-lards. Chairman Pratt's reply to a questionnaire by a house member didn't suit other members of the commission, who refused to sign with him.

Various ticklish questions might come up in an investigation. Has the commission whitewashed obscene programs? Has influence been used to "fix" radio licenses? Does the commission countenance censorship of radio time in favor of the administration and against deserving Democrats who disagree? Is the G. O. P. to get the worst of it during the coming campaign, by order or with the connivance of the FCC?

Much might be made if the inquiry if Democrats and Republicans could get together—and they can if Starting as an obscure seaman, Henry Morgan became a buccaner of fame, looting ships at sea and taking Puerto Principe and Porto Belle at the head of a free lance private army on land. He sacked Panama in 1671 and for this he was arrested and taken to England for trial.

Here he won the favor of the king, was freed of charges, knighted and returned to the scene of his former pirate horrors to be lieutenant-governor and commander-in-chief of the king's forces in Jamaica. He soon proved unsatisfactory for the job, however, and later was dismissed from office.

All this was crowded into a brief period for Morgan rose from obscurity to fame and lapsed back into obscurity in seven short years. Cold, according to the scientific way of looking at things, is the absence of heat. The absolute absence of heat is called absolute zero, and is 459.4 degrees below zero on the Fahrenheit scale. Zero on our scale is not cold, then, but a degree of heat.

Long before the invention of steam, electric, gasoline and other forms of rapid transportation, William Douglas, the 4th Duke of Queensbury, sent a letter 50 miles in one hour on a wagger. He enclosed the letter in a cricket ball and had 20 expert players throw it back and forth—50 miles in one hour.

MISSION WORK DISCUSSED BY CHURCH GROUP

FULLERTON, Jan. 23.—Members of the Fullerton and Home Mission societies of the Methodist church met for an all day session at the church parlors Tuesday, where studies of South America, and of settlement work in the Southland of the United States were featured at the two program sessions.

Mrs. S. W. Douglas was in charge of the business meeting of the Foreign society, and presented Mrs. C. W. O'Flynn, who directed a candle ceremonial. Mrs. R. L. Chabers conducted a study of mission work in South America, and Mrs. Grace Ford discussed "World Peace." Mrs. Douglas spoke briefly on the work of Kagawa, the Japanese Christian leader who is now in the United States.

Members of the Home society met after a luncheon served to both groups. Mrs. S. W. Smith presided and introduced Mrs. J. L. Morris, of La Habra, who told of the work in the southern states. Mrs. Forrest Gordon and Mrs. C. A. Boney led the devotional services, and Mrs. J. J. Little, with Mrs. Douglas accompanying, sang a solo. Mrs. Clara Leditke presented a poem.

An outline of work being done among young people in the United States was given by Mrs. W. P. Alexander.

FRUIT ASSOCIATION SELECTS OFFICERS

ANAHEIM, Jan. 23.—S. C. Hartman was named president of the Anaheim Citrus Fruit association yesterday at a meeting of the board of directors of that organization following the annual meeting of association members.

Other officials named at the executive session were: F. H. Zaiser, vice president; John D. Dunn, manager and secretary, and Burt F. Zaiser, assistant secretary. The Southern Citrus bank was named treasurer and depositor of the association. Other directors of the association are D. W. Waynick, J. J. Dwyer, L. W. Eaton, G. O. Trapp, T. F. Shea, D. L. Harpster and L. P. Halderman.

FULLERTON, Jan. 23.—Mrs. A. Curtis Gray is leaving tonight for the Union Pacific for Fort Collins, Colo., to visit her father, Ed Marshall, who has been critically ill. She had word this morning that he is improved but is continuing her trip to be with him for a time.

Secure Equipment For Shop Classes

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, Jan. 23.—Equipment for San Juan Capistrano High school shop classes, including three lathes, grinding wheels, generator and a motor, has been secured from the U. S. Navy supply base at San Diego. The equipment was secured free of charge through arrangements with Lt. Com. W. E. Lund.

The equipment was brought to Capistrano on the school truck, Charles Craft, driver, being accompanied by James A. Hoskins, instructor, and five students, Bob Adair, Frank Woodman, Dick Ullon, Clifford Russell and Harry Gunter. The group was taken on a tour of inspection of the base and of the destroyer Perry.

NAMED ON COMMITTEE

BREA, Jan. 23.—Elmer R. Guy, city attorney of Brea, and Miss Ruth Livingston have been asked to serve on the University of California scholarship committee for Orange county for the year. They will serve with 12 other members of the committee, the chairman of which is John Lutz Jr., of Anaheim.

Kermit Cannon, a graduate of Brea-Olinda Union High school, received the Berkeley scholarship last year, and according to letters received by both Guy and Miss Livingston, has made good on his opportunity.

Cites Need of Safety Measures

FULLERTON, Jan. 23.—Capt. Henry Meehan yesterday told members of Fullerton Rotary club that the result of citizens insisting on driving automobiles at high speed may be the placing of speed governors on each car.

Capt. Meehan said that such legislation must be adopted along with other safety measures unless the high death and injury rates through automobile accidents is lessened through the individual control.

MRS. RALPH McLEAN CHAPTER HOSTESS

FULLERTON, Jan. 23.—Mrs. Dalton Field, director of program, was in charge of the meeting of the Phi chapter of Beta Sigma Phi sorority Wednesday night when the literary group met at the home of Mrs. Ralph McLean (Dorothy Schweitzer) at 237 West Brookdale avenue.

She presented Mrs. Sig Stern, who brought a resume of the life of Leonardo da Vinci, and read excerpts on a biography by Dmitri Merejkowski. Miss Mildred Hinkley discussed "Fascism" as part of the program.

Mrs. McLean served a dessert course at the close of the meeting to her guests, who were besides those mentioned, Mrs. Harold Lang, Miss Lois Shell, Miss Edith Robinson, Mrs. Clarence Lang, Mrs. Dorothy Vance, Mrs. William Vance (Margaret Dean), Mrs. Leonard Wildman, Miss Irma Weis and Miss Dorothy Schweitzer.

Miss Robinson will entertain at her Artesia home February 12.

SUPPER PLANNED BY GIRL RESERVES

FULLERTON, Jan. 23.—Catherine Peck, president of the combined groups of Girl Reserves, presided at a cabinet meeting that followed a planned pot luck supper at the home of Miss Emma Kast, dean of women of Fullerton Union High school Wednesday night.

Plans were made at the meeting for a mother-daughter banquet February 28 at the school cafeteria. "Washington" will be the theme and Margaret McCool, general chairman of the meeting. The junior-senior group will be in charge of program and publicity, the sophomores of the decorations and the freshmen of table setting and "clean-up."

Della Sheets of the freshman group, Joanne Jacobsen of the sophomore group and Barbara Luff of the upper classman group reported on past activity and future plans. Miss Edna Munford, secretary of Northern Orange county work, was a guest.

W. C. T. U. HEAR SECRETARY OF Y.W.

FULLERTON, Jan. 23.—Miss Edna Munford, secretary of Y. W. C. A. work in Northern Orange county, will lead the discussion at the next W. C. T. U. meeting Tuesday at 2 p. m. when Fullerton women meet at the Methodist church. Her topic will be "Temperance Education." Mrs. Cora Hale will preside. Mrs. Lena Larue will lead the devotional service.

ROAD BUILDERS TOLD OF LOW COST PROCESS

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Jan. 23.—Experiments with a new process of constructing durable roads at low cost were outlined before the twenty-third annual convention of the American Road Builders' association during its session here yesterday afternoon, in an address by F. V. Reagel, engineer of materials of the Missouri state highway department.

The new process, which is known as the Ingalls, or subterranean oil method, provides for depositing sand oil at the bottom of a scarified layer of earth, followed by compaction to permit the oil to seepate upward and diffuse throughout the mass, he explained.

The method was developed by A. Ingalls in connection with construction of roads for hauling heavy equipment in the western oil fields, and its first trial in Missouri was made by Alex F. Sachs, county engineer of Jackson county, the speaker said.

"After promising conditions were observed on these stretches constructed during the summer of '35, ten miles of experimental sections were constructed on the Missouri state highway system in that county," Reagel told the assembled road builders. He also said that following injection of the oil into the soil, either with or

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 23.—Funny, these stars—he loves classical music. He doesn't play poker. He wouldn't bait a fish hook. He never has been in an airplane. He won't eat bananas, raw oysters, or popcorn. He never has belonged to any club. He isn't ticklish. He doesn't smoke, and seldom swears. On the screen, though, he's a tough guy. His name is Jimmy Cagney.

A game she can't understand at all is checkers. She's a little afraid of people who talk or sing to themselves. Yet she isn't afraid of spiders—even black widows. Or snakes. She loves thunderstorms. She hates puns and cottage cheese. Never in her life has she missed a train. Her name is Joan Blondell.

She doesn't like dolls, even the floppy, decorated kind. She also dislikes shopping and is made a little ill by the odor of petunias. Refused to wear orange blossoms at her wedding. She never has found anything of value, even a four-leaf clover. She hasn't seen a penguin, but would like to. She never has been out of the United States, and doesn't care. Her name is Bette Davis.

Spanish Village Club In Program

SAN CLEMENTE, Jan. 23.—A program consisting of reading of articles on the nation-wide progress of the Townsend plan and community singing was held at the regular meeting of the Townsend club in the school house Tuesday evening. Miss Kathryn Allison, program chairman, arranged the program and conducted the singing. Mrs. Joe Cramer was accompanist. Sandwiches and coffee were served by Miss Eunice Templin, social chairman, assisted by Miss Effie Johnston.

New members since the last meeting were reported by W. F. Hazard, membership chairman. F. C. Shork and F. A. Neddermeyer are finance and publicity chairmen. Chairman heads were appointed at a recent meeting of the advisory board.

Grand Army Of Republic Post Installs Officers

G. D. CAMPBELL IS INSTALLED AS COMMANDER

With only the two officers able to attend the meeting, George D. Campbell was installed commander and John McDonald senior vice commander of Sedgwick Post No. 17, Grand Army of the Republic, in ceremonies held yesterday afternoon in the M.W.A. Hall.

Campbell and McDonald are two of the remaining six members of the Grand Army of the Republic post in Santa Ana, which at one time boasted a roster of more than 600 members.

Junior Vice Department Commander John W. Grimes of Long Beach was the installing officer, assisted by Comrade J. L. Fasnacht as officer of the day. The officer of the day also is from Long Beach.

Quartermaster III

Because of illness, Quartermaster W. J. Lieser of the local G.A.R. post was not able to attend the meeting. Comrades Addison Baker and Jacob Rush of Gordon Grange Post No. 138, of Orange, were present at the meeting. J. M. Talcott of the local post also was reported on the sick list.

Commander Campbell will be assisted in filling out the other offices of the post by the Sons of Union Veterans, with J. R. Moore as officer of the day, E. J. Parker as chaplain, W. I. Davis as guide and C. F. Millen as secretary.

Urging the "Boys in Blue" to carry on to the best of their ability, Grimes, the installing officer, made a short talk. Baker, Rush and Fasnacht also made short talks.

Commander Campbell was presented with a beautiful bouquet from the Shiloh Circle, women's organization in the G.A.R. The presentation was made by Maud Wallace.

The next meeting of the post will be on February 26.

SELECT CAST FOR WESTMINSTER PLAY

WESTMINSTER, Jan. 23.—The cast for the three-act comedy which is being sponsored by the Young Matrons' club of the Westminster Presbyterian church has been chosen and the parts assigned. Political Rumblings

By PAUL VISSMAN

Local political gossip during the past few days had very little to offer other than indications that there is a well-defined Thomas Kuchel-For-Assembly boom under way in the 75th district.

Recently Kuchel, who is a practicing attorney in Anaheim, admitted that he is considering the possibility of entering the campaign for the assembly seat but declared that he absolutely will not be a candidate for the post if Speaker Ted Craig is a candidate to succeed himself.

The indications are, at present, that Craig will not be a candidate for the senatorial seat being vacated by Sen. Nelson Edwards. All factions have conceded that Craig can be re-elected assemblyman from his district. He is one candidate who can count upon both Republican and Democratic votes, after the primary. His outstanding record in Sacramento is one of which any assemblyman can be proud and his constituents feel that with Craig in the legislature the interests of the district are protected at all times.

At the last session of legislature he was made speaker of the house and, in that office, won new laurels. He was so successful as speaker that his re-election to that post is assured—and that is not gossip.

Friends of Craig are pointing out that, if he is a candidate for any public office it will be for re-election to the assembly. With the speakership assured, Craig's friends say, he would be foolish to enter the senatorial race. The speakership carries prestige that does not attach itself to the senatorial toga, especially a new senator going to Sacramento to fill the place vacated by Edwards. Craig's friends declare that there is but one speaker of the assembly in Sacramento and 52 senators.

There is a strong possibility, however, that Craig will not be a candidate for any public office. It is said that he has been offered an attractive position with one of the larger utility corporations and is inclined to accept the offer when his present term of office expires.

If Craig does not make the race Kuchel definitely will hurt his hat into the ring. This decision is the result of a well-defined boom that started of its own volition. Several of the newspaper editors in the district have pledged their support and, if it is rumored that one potential candidate has said that he will not enter the race if Kuchel does and will campaign for the young Anaheim attorney.

Indications of a new division in Democratic forces in the state are more prevalent following the Epic convention held last Saturday and Sunday in Los Angeles. The Democratic party, already was divided with the Epics on one hand and the conservative element on the other.

For a time it seemed that the breach would be healed and both factions unite for the re-election of Roosevelt. Today it appears that a portion of the Epic forces will unite with conservatives for Roosevelt's re-election and the remainder will stand aloof unless Roosevelt includes a production-for-use plank in his national platform.

The Epic convention, held immediately after the convention of the State Democratic Central Committee, was marked by recriminations and charges that Sen. Culbert Olson long considered a leader of the Epic forces, had "sold out" his followers in agreeing to support Roosevelt.

The outcome of the two conventions was a bitter battle at the Epic meeting when, for a time it was feared, or hoped, that fists would fly, and the support of the group withheld until Feb. 10, the date when Roosevelt must answer the Epic ultimatum of whether or not he will include a production-for-use plank in their platform. The majority of the Epics have indicated that, if Roosevelt refuses, they will throw their support to some other candidate. They did not indicate whether it would be a "dark horse" candidate or the Republican choice.

Local observers say that the split, started last Sunday at the Epic convention will be felt in every Epic club in the county with a sharp division between the Roosevelt supporters and those who would withhold this support, being revealed.

New officers of Santa Ana chapter of De Molay and the local branch of Job's Daughters were installed Tuesday night when the young peoples groups held joint ceremonies in Masonic temple. Miss Fern Anderson became Job's Daughters honored queen to succeed Miss Lorraine Wheeler; Darrell Gaebbe became De Molay master counselor succeeding Shelley Horton.

French Fashion Insect-Type Plane

Built along lines more like those of a huge insect than a bird, this revolutionary type of airplane, somewhat resembling an autogiro, is shown after its first successful test flight in Paris, its backers inspecting it. It is known as the Breguet-Dorand gyroplane, operating with the aid of two enormous propeller-like wings. It already has won the closed circuit record for helicopter-type planes, thus qualifying for the prize of 1,000,000 francs, offered by the French minister of air.

RUSSELL MUNRO, SANTA ANA MAN, SHOT BIRDS WITH KING GEORGE, MET PRINCE TWICE

He shot birds with King George V, when the king was the Prince of Wales, breakfasted with the present King Edward VII, when that monarch was the Prince of Wales and met him again and renewed the friendship on the French front during the World War! Those three events are outstanding in the memory of Russell Munro, resident of Santa Ana and active in affairs of the Orange county chapter of the Canadian Legion, organization of British World War veterans.

If these honors are not enough, Munro was a dinner guest of King George and Queen Mary at Windsor Castle, during the war. At that time Munro was a patient in the hospital being operated at in the home of Lord Northcliffe, just across the street from the castle and was one of 80 British army officers invited to dine with the royal family.

Munro's first contact with the royal family came several years before the war, then, Prince of Wales became King George V. The prince, an enthusiastic hunter, was visiting in Canada and went to Lake Manitoba for the shooting. Munro was a member of the hunting party.

Shortly before the World war the present monarch, who was then Prince of Wales came to Canada to visit his ranch holdings. Munro was an officer in the Canadian army, was in officer's quarters on the French front when the Prince of Wales walked in. The officers were presented to him and as Munro walked up the prince, extending his hand said "Hello there. How is my friend John Wright? Have you seen him lately?"

Reminiscing about the royal family Munro told of his dinner with King George and Queen Mary while he was convalescing at Baerwood, built by the owner of the London Daily News. On that visit, Munro said, the queen visited with each officer for several minutes before they were seated at the table.

"What sort of ruler will the new king be?" Munro said in reply to a question. "He will be a worthy son of his father and well-loved by his people. He knows the needs of the English people and is in sympathy with them."

Writing To Sell

HOMEMAKING ARTICLES

The world may be haywire, cock-eyed, and going to the everlasting air, as the pessimists of today would have us believe, but home is still home, and husbands are eating just about as many home baked biscuits as they ever were.

The beginning writer may have his eye on Liberty or Harper's Bazaar, but while he is acquiring the technique and facility to take his manuscript over the editorial hurdles in magazines such as these, he may like to annex a few checks via the home-making route.

A new party—a new menu—a new twist to an old recipe—these short articles are readily salable. But you can't expect to sell them if they are sloppy or indifferently written.

Organize Material

Organize your material as carefully as if you were going to do a short story. What is the point of the story you want to get over? Is that recipe more economical than the old-timer the average housewife has been using? Is the party you want to tell about unusually spectacular, or a god-send to the woman who wants to show her guests a good time and not spend too much money?

No matter what the point is, see that you work toward it logically, systematically. Keep it impersonal. You don't have to use the names of persons or places in articles of this kind. It's the party or the recipe the reader wants to read about.

If you happen to be good at inventing games, there is a very special niche for you in the writing field. But even if you only see or hear about an entertainment feature that can be used in the average home, you have something you can sell, and the smallest check looks as big as the side of a house when you're starting out in the writing business.

Many Markets

There are many markets for home-making articles. Here, again, Grit, Williamsport, Pa., is a possibility. Then there are: The Home Desirable, 221 N. La Salle St., Chicago, Ill. Home Friend Magazine, 1411 Wyandotte St., Kansas City, Mo. Farmer's Wife, 55 East Tenth St., St. Paul, Minn. Woman's World, 461 Eighth Ave., New York. Household Magazine, Eighth and Jackson, Topeka, Kansas. Holland's Magazine, Main and Second Sts., Dallas, Texas, in addition to the old stand-bys, McCall's, Pictorial Review, Woman's Home Companion, etc., which are about as hard to crash with "small stuff" as with longer material.

Pacific Coast writers have a splendid outlet in Sunset Magazine, although material for this magazine should run more to interior decorating and home construction. They like pictures and stories of small homes, rebuilding, and unique interiors.

So bear this in mind, Mr. and Miss New Writer. Tomorrow, Writing to Sell will give you tips on the "How to Do" field.

WPA SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA TO OPEN CONCERTS

STAGE TALENT CONTEST SHOW HERE MONDAY

Santa Anans will be given their first public opportunity tomorrow night to hear the Orange County Federal Music Project Symphony orchestra in a concert under direction of Leon Eckles.

The concert, planned as the first of a series of monthly events by the musical group, will be held in the Julia Lathrop Junior high school assembly hall. The assembly hall is located on Russell street, just off South Main street.

According to H. G. Nelson, principal of the Julia Lathrop school, selections for this initial concert will be popular numbers. If the concert, which is free, is well attended, others will be presented, probably one each month. He said that there is a possibility, if the suggestion is approved by the public, that the concerts will be presented on Sunday afternoons in the future.

The Federal Music Project Symphony orchestra, sponsored by the government includes, in its personnel, the majority of Orange county's outstanding instrumentalists, under direction of Leon Eckles who, for many years, directed the Cantando club.

Picnics and Reunions

OHIO

All former residents of Ohio are included in the call to rally for the annual winter picnic reunion, all day, Saturday, January 25, in Sycamore, Grove park, Los Angeles. County registers will be open all day and hot coffee served. Dr. Elwood T. Bailey will tell of the San Diego exposition and Alma Dube will supply the musical program. All the Buckeyes, resident or visiting are invited.

Y. M. C. A. WILL HOLD ELECTION MEET MONDAY

Plans for the annual membership meeting and election of directors for the Y. M. C. A., to be held January 27, were announced today by Secretary Ralph Smedley.

The meeting will be held in the Y. M. C. A. dining hall and will start promptly at 6 p. m. Smedley said that the meeting will adjourn at 8 o'clock.

In addition to the election of new directors for the organization, annual reports will be submitted and a few items of routine business will be transacted. The new directors and holdover members of the board will hold an organization meeting and election of officers for the year, at a later date.

Pastor Will Talk

The principal speaker will be the Rev. Harland E. Hogue of San Diego. The Rev. Mr. Hogue is one of the outstanding speakers of San Diego county and will deliver an inspirational address dealing with Y. M. C. A. as a vital force in the character building program of the community.

Smedley said today that a special invitation is being extended to the women of the community to attend the dinner meeting and become better acquainted with the work being carried on by the Santa Ana organization.

Dinner reservations may be made by telephoning 96 or contacting Smedley at the Y. M. C. A.

MAKE PLANS FOR MISSION STUDIES

WESTMINSTER, Jan. 23.—Arrangement for the annual school of missions sponsored by the Missionary society of the Westminster Presbyterian church are being made. The school of missions will convene during the month of February each Sunday evening between the hours of 6 and 8 o'clock.

Mrs. George Greer has been made dean and department heads are now being chosen for five divisions, primary and beginners, junior, intermediate, young people and adults.

"Latin America" will be the general study topic for the entire session, with each department studying a different book relating to the subject. This study will be held during the first hour of each Sunday's session, while the hour from 7 to 8 o'clock will be devoted to speakers and other program features. Several well known speakers familiar with the Latin American countries are scheduled for different evenings during the month.

1308 North Main street, according to Thomas Taylor, in charge of entrants.

Bridal Theme Prevails In Party Plans Of Hostess Octet

Mrs. Oscar Kurtz, Henry J. Helmer, U. Sherman Glaze, Charles I. Reagan, John Shaw, Hanigan C. Meberly, Adolph Erickson and Elva Hunt comprised a friendly hostess octet Tuesday afternoon when they complimented Miss Na. Travis McDonald, at a miscellaneous shower.

They chose K. C. hall as a setting for their party and made it gay and colorful with the many flowers used. Games were introduced early in the afternoon with first and second prizes awarded Mrs. Jack Hess and Mrs. Nevil A. Hopsen and consolation going to Mrs. J. W. Ishell.

Much of the entertainment interest centered in a wedding ceremony staged, with Mrs. Charles W. Hannah taking the bride role soon to be assumed in earnest by the honor guest.

Mrs. Wheeler took the part of the bridegroom while Mrs. Kurtz was an amazing and amusing minister. Mrs. Shaw as ring bearer and Mrs. Erickson as flower girl, added merriment to the ceremony, which ended with the presentation to Miss Wheeler, of the many charming gifts brought by the guests.

Co-Hostesses Receive Bridge Club Members

Miss Helen Demetriou and Miss Dorothy Dunbar joined as co-hostesses Tuesday night when they received bridge club members in the latter's home on South Parton street.

Prize winners were Miss Florence Turner and Mrs. Clyde Higgins, who won decks of cards for their first and second high scores in bridge Jello pie topped with whipped cream was served by the hostesses.

Present were Mesdames Clyde Higgins, Allen Carstensen and the Mesdames Miriam Samuelson, Roselind Schilling, Margaret Guard, Marjorie Berkner, Florence Turner, Mary Jean Du Bois, Jessie McClain, Virginia Miller and the two hostesses.

Birthday And Wedding Anniversaries Occasion Celebration

Celebrating his 84th birthday anniversary, N. H. Leonard, 620 North Ross street, shared honors with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Minter. The occasion of their 32nd wedding anniversary Tuesday in Jack Fisher park, where a family group assembled for dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard came to Santa Ana in 1887 from Spring Valley, Minn. The marriage of their daughter to Mr. Minter took place in the Leonard's former home at Grand and Santa Clara avenues. The Rev. George Clark, who was pastor of Spurgeon Memorial church at that time, performed the ceremony.

Present for the dinner at the park were Messrs. and Mesdames N. H. Leonard, C. S. Minter and daughters, Claudine and Ernestine; D. P. Leonard, C. W. Todd and children, Billy and Marian; W. L. Vose, Marvin Johnson, Roy Johnson, Rupert McArthur, W. J. Pleasant News Told Bridge Luncheon Guests Included among the half hundred guests entertained Tuesday at a bridge luncheon given by Mrs. Donald Knapp of San Bernardino, were Mrs. A. G. Flagg and her daughter, Mrs. J. Riley Huber (Margaret Flagg) of this city.

It was a very special occasion, for Mrs. Knapp, entertaining in the California hotel of the Gate City, made formal announcement of the anticipated arrival of a "New Baby Star" to her and Mr. Knapp. The suggestion of the theater in this pleasant news was highly appropriate when it was recalled that the Knapp family is closely identified with Southland theater circles. Donald Knapp's father, the late James C. Knapp, was for many years one of the leading theater owners of Santa Ana, and conducted the Princess here when it was the city's leading amusement house. Donald Knapp now maintains theaters in San Bernardino.

In receiving her guests, Mrs. Knapp was assisted by her sister, Mrs. Mary Rose, and by Mr. Knapp's mother, Mrs. James C. Knapp. Luncheon was served in the private dining room of the hotel, to the accompaniment of many flowers whose soft colors blended charmingly with the blue glass of the service.

Before guests repaired to the card room for the afternoon of bridge, a theater attendant arrived in the capacity of a messenger boy, with announcements of the "signing of the Baby Star." News of this event, anticipated in May, was a happy surprise to the guests.

Dessert will be served to precede the playing of auction, contract bridge and anagrams. Prizes will be awarded winners. Reservations may be made with Mrs. G. E. Lusk, telephone 2241-W or Mrs. R. E. Steinberger, 4227-R.

Friendly Circle of First M. E. church will have a covered dish dinner tomorrow night at 6:30 o'clock in the church social hall. This is anticipated as a well attended affair for it will be the last social meeting of the group until after the Church Night series beginning next Wednesday night.

El Club Social Juvenil has announced an invitational semi-formal dance as the leading mid-winter social event for this group of Latin young people of the community, to be held Sunday night in Gonzales hall. Dancing, to begin at 8:30 o'clock, will be to music provided by a seven-piece orchestra. A similar club organized for Spanish and Mexican young people of Los Angeles, has been invited to the affair, for which elaborate plans are being made by officers and committee chairman.

Berean class members of United Brethren Sunday school will hold a business and social meeting tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock with Mrs. Julia Deakin, 1059 West Second street.

Gift Shower Arranged As Compliment To Bride-Elect

Miss Peggy Warburton, who in late February will become the bride of Gene Edwards, discovered that her plans had inspired a delightful courtesy on the part of friends when she responded Tuesday night to the party invitation of Mrs. Harvey Bear and Mrs. Vernon Matthews.

The two young matrons received in the home of Mrs. Bear, 1237 South Parton street, where many yellow and white flowers lent themselves gracefully to the decorative effect planned. In the games contest gifts wrapped in the two colors were won by Mrs. Harold Leach and Mrs. George Dray. This introduced the shower features of the party, when to Miss Warburton was presented the collection of miscellaneous gifts selected for her future home by the guests.

For the refreshment hour, Mrs. Bear and Mrs. Matthews had arranged a long table in yellow and white appointments, with a dainty bride doll as centerpiece. Slim yellow candles surrounded the doll, and suspended above the table was a large crepe paper umbrella to suggest the shower nature of the evening. Individual cakes led in yellow were served with ice cream and coffee, and salted nuts and sweets in small yellow cases.

Sharing the evening with Mrs. Matthews, Mrs. Bear and their honor guest, Miss Warburton, were the Mesdames Emma Williams, Viola Morrison, Mesdames Harold Leach, George Dray, C. E. Edwards, Thomas Cone, George Clewitt of Escondido, Harold Walker, Norman McClellan of Burbank and George Dews.

Tea In Anaheim Given For Sorority Sponsor

Mrs. Virgil R. Harman of 317 Mills Drive, Anaheim, a member of Santa Ana Junior Ebbl society, entertained with a tea this week in her home, complimenting Mrs. Julius Blum of Stockton. Guests included members of Alpha Gamma chapter of Delta Chi Sigma sorority, of which Mrs. Blum is sponsor.

In the group were Mrs. Bonnie Sopher, Mrs. Marjorie Harris, Mrs. Dorothy Harbert, Mrs. Dickie Trogden, Mrs. Helen Dody and Mrs. Irene Garrison. Master Robert Edsall Harman, young son of the home, claimed the attention of the group during the afternoon.

YOU and your Friends

Mr. and Mrs. Paul M. McClelland, owner and operators of the Chicago College of Beauty, accompanied by Miss Gladys Flom, mining, teacher, and a group of students, attended the beauty show last night in Los Angeles Biltmore hotel, returning with many new and valuable ideas to apply to their work and studies. In the party of students were Maurine Moore, Wilma Stanfield, Margaret Aguino, Elizabeth Dale, Fern Rime, Mildred Buechter, Eloise Schrier, Myrtilla Wallace, Virginia Vaughn, Jean Bishop, Anna Moore, Ruth Williams, Mary Danni and Harrod Hollowell.

Mr. and Mrs. Arley Gowman, 705 East Chestnut street, have as Ruth Pledge of Chicago, Ill., who arrived yesterday for her first visit in Chicago. She will be here for an extended stay and plans are already under way for various parties and trips in her honor.

Mrs. R. J. Hubbell, 2033 Bush street, has returned from Grand Island, Nebr., where she took the body of her mother, the late Mrs. Joanna Bushnick, for burial.

Student Recital

Sixty guests were present for a recital in which piano pupils of Minnie Phillips Heard were presented recently in Ebbl clubhouse lounge.

Solo, duet and trio numbers comprised the program presented by the student group. Blanche Patton, pupil of Edward Burns, was assisting artist, playing a cello solo.

Piano students appearing in recital were Mary Turner, Bernadine Neger, Maxine Reed, Mary Adele Henderson, David Head, Marjorie Galbraith, Frances Head, John Hopkins, Grace Olson, Marguerite Olson, Vivian Vale, Dale Pollard, John Henderson, Doris Clark, Harriet Spier, Phyllis Krook, Eliza Mae Hoxie, Lois Gill Harris and Esther Vogt.

Guardian Council Has First Meeting Since Installation

Guardian Council of Santa Ana bethel, Job's Daughters, planned activities for the new year when members met Wednesday night as guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Dean, 403 East Walnut street. The meeting was held just one night following Job's Daughters installation, when Miss Fern Anderson became honored queen to succeed Miss Lorraine Wheeler.

Mrs. Dean served covered-dish dinner at a long table centered with a bouquet of mixed blooms. A monthly business meeting preceded a bridge contest in which Mr. and Mrs. Charles Carlson scored high. Mrs. Leslie Pearson and Harry Crowe were consoling. Present were Mrs. Dean's father, R. V. Cox, with the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Dean and Messrs. and Mesdames Frank Sawyer, Harry Crowe, Claude McFarren, Leslie Pearson, Charles Carlson, Guy Christian.

Mrs. Crowe will be hostess at the February meeting.

The Steven Quinns Are Bridge Party Hosts

Mr. and Mrs. Steven Quinn welcomed a group of friends to their home, 418 South Broadway, recently for an evening of bridge. Prizes went to Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ladd who scored high, and Mr. and Mrs. George De Rouillac, low.

Refreshments were served at a large table appointed in ruby red glassware. Tapers and other decorations in red suggested a Valentine theme.

Sharing Mr. and Mrs. Quinn's hospitality were Messrs. and Mesdames Raymond Walter, Earl Ladd, Leonard Holman, Hugh Marshall and George De Rouillac.

Social Briefs

BUFFET SUPPER

Mr. and Mrs. Orval Lyon received a little group of guests at an 8 o'clock supper recently in their home, 1114 West Seventeenth street. Bouquets of yellow narcissus brightened rooms of the home. Supper served buffet style preceded an evening of dancing. In the group with the hosts were Messrs. and Mesdames Roy Lyon, Hubert Gohres, Charles Reid and Harold Fogle.

TO LOS ANGELES

Several Santa Ana young people joined in the festivities at the Biltmore hotel Saturday evening where Los Angeles Order of De Molay held its annual spring dance in the rendezvous room. Midnight supper was enjoyed at Lucca's. Forming a party from here were Frances Keeton and Maurice Lyan; Helen Andrews, Horace Birdsall; Mary Ellen Dudley, Thomas Croddy; Mary Ann Newcomer, Thomas Hamill; Dorothy Carlson, Francis Davis; Lorraine Turk, Roger McCune; Patricia Allen, Phil Dodge; Gloria Kirschner, Don Kennedy; Dorothy Lee Henderson, Bob Reif; Agnes Brady, Debert Tucker.

Parent-Teachers

Something new in the annals of P. T. A. history was the program presented Tuesday afternoon at a meeting of Franklin P. T. A. in the school, where colored members of the association took full charge of plans for the day.

Evidencing their interest in the event, several P. T. A. leaders of the community attended as guests. Present were Mrs. John J. Mills, City Council P. T. A. president; Mrs. Neal Belsa, state officer; Mrs. Walter Fine, state officer; Margaret Fine, Mrs. B. E. Walbridge; Mrs. R. E. Steinberger and Mrs. James Givens.

Mrs. James Hird, president of the association, turned the meeting over to Mrs. Le Roy Burke, who opened the program with a talk in appreciation of cooperation shown members of her race by Franklin P. T. A. Mrs. Cobbs of Monrovia, an affiliate of the Federation of Colored Women, introduced as speaker Miss Beatrice "Negro Education," referring to such famous Negroes as Booker T. Washington.

Members of the primary department of the Johnston chapel Sunday school sang two numbers, one in the Bengali-India language, the other in Spanish. A trio from the Junior department sang. Miss Anna May Burke, daughter of the program chairman, played piano solos. Tea and cookies were served by Mrs. Burke and her assisting hostesses.

MIXING BOWL

Unless you are a veritable Martha among housekeepers you will not care to make these soup trimmings for every-day use, but it is nice to have something of the sort to serve with the broth used for "company" dinners.

Drop Soup Dumplings

Break into a cup the whites of 3 eggs, fill cup with water or milk, add 1 cup of flour and 1 tablespoon melted butter or soup fat. Stir a trifle, then put all into a sauce pan and whip briskly over the fire until the paste will leave the sides of the pan. Cool this paste, add the egg yolks, beat 5 minutes, season with a little salt and nutmeg, drop tiny bits from tip of teaspoon into boiling hot broth and cook until the little dumplings rise to the top of broth. When cooked, they should not be larger than small marbles. Do not have the soup boiling at a gallop or the paste will break up into scraps. The recipe may be made up and kept in the refrigerator ahead of time.

EAT AND GROW SLIM

Breakfast

1-2 grapefruit, or
Baked apple without cream
Crumble omelette
Cup of coffee with 1-4 cup hot skimmed milk, no sugar

Calory total... 350

Crush 2 slices dry cold toast or 2 slices of zwieback. Beat 2 egg yolks with 2 tablespoons cold water, fold into the stiffly whipped white. In a big skillet melt a pat

Butterscotch Pie

1 package vanilla pudding powder
2 eggs, whites beaten stiff
1-2 cups rich milk
1-4 cup chopped walnuts
1 teaspoon maple extract
Baked pie shell

When you use this arrowroot pudding base you leave nothing to chance. Prepare according to directions on package, and when cooked with the milk add the beaten egg yolks and cook a minute longer, remove from fire, whip in the beaten whites, nuts and extract. Cool before piling into the baked shell.

The same pudding base in chocolate makes a marvellous chocolate cream pie. Reserve whites for top and brown the meringue. To set a smooth heavy meringue, remove from fire, whip in the beaten whites, nuts and extract. Cool before piling into the baked shell.

THIS ALL-PURPOSE FROCK GIVES THE FORTY-EIGHT ENVIABLE LINES

PATTERN 2651

BY ANNE ADAMS

"You look pounds thinner!" your club associates will exclaim, practically in unison, when you wear this slenderizing frock for the first time. And indeed, it's been so carefully styled that a forty-eight can look proportionately as slender as a thirty-four. You've a deep V neckline, a smooth fitting over-the-shoulder yoke, and a height-giving center skirt panel to carry out the slimming effect, while a soft bow is as concealing as it is feminine. It's a frock you'll enjoy entertaining in, enjoy for restaurant dining, club meetings or church functions the season through, and one that carries over nicely into spring. Make it up in flat crepe or triple sheer.

Pattern 2651 is available in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 takes four yards 39-inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Send FIFTY CENTS (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE.

Be sure to order OUR SPRING PATTERN BOOK for smart new clothes that'll fit you and your needs to a "T"! Gay, practical frocks to cheer you at work. Lovely party frocks and sports clothes to flatter you at play. Collars, blouses, skirts for multiplying costumes. Chic slenderizing styles. Patterns for tots. Fabric and accessory news. PRICE OF BOOK FIFTY CENTS. BOOK AND A PATTERN TOGETHER, TWENTY-FIVE CENTS.

Address orders to Santa Ana Register, pattern department.

HOLD LAST RITES FOR MRS. THURMAN

TALBERT, Jan. 23.—Funeral services were held Monday at the Hunter mortuary, Long Beach, for Mrs. Mary Louise Thurman, 84, resident of Long Beach, whose death occurred Thursday following a short illness at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Sam Talbert. The service, which was largely attended, was conducted by the Rev. Edward Moody, pastor of the Talbert Methodist church, south, and pallbearers included relatives and close friends of the family.

The song, "There Will Be No Tears in Heaven," was sung by a grandson, Earl Carter, with another grandson, Fred Carter of Long Beach, as accompanist. The number, "Safe in the Arms of Jesus," was played as a violin solo by Fred Carter. Interment was made in Long Beach, where Mrs. Thurman's father and husband were buried.

She came to California in 1875 with her husband, J. M. Brady, whose death occurred in 1888. Five children survive, Mrs. Bettie Carter of Long Beach, Mrs. Emma Pettitt of Whittier, Mrs. Hattie Talbert of Talbert, Mrs. Dora Rogers of Talbert, W. T. Brady of Hollywood. Two brothers, John Shrode of Santa Ana and Jake Shrode of Talbert, survive. Mrs. Thurman's second husband, Alex Thurman, preceded her by a number of years.

Conduct Funeral Of Mesa Resident

COSTA MESA, Jan. 23.—Funeral services were held yesterday for Mrs. Ellen Josephine Dady, 76, who passed away at her home Tuesday. The Rev. Grover S. Brown delivered the funeral sermon and Mrs. Brown and Ed Bennett sang several sacred duets. Following the services at the church, the body was taken to Santa Ana from where it was shipped to Mason, la., for interment. The Dixon chapel was in charge of the arrangements.

Mrs. Dady, a native of Iowa, had lived in Costa Mesa for the past three years. She was a life-long member of the Baptist church. She had been married to her husband, Perry M. Dady, for 55 years. She leaves her husband, four sons, Perle S. Dady and Harry L. Dady, both of Santa Ana; Guy Dady, of Broken Bow, Neb., and Otis M. Dady, of Ansley, Neb., and four daughters, Mrs. Mona Eshel, of Costa Mesa; Mrs. Jennie Runyon, of Newton, Ia.; Mrs. Myrtle Brand of Mason, Neb., and Mrs. Lorene Nelson, of Seward, Neb. Mrs. Fisher accompanied the body east.

La Habra Circle To Hold Contest

LA HABRA, Jan. 23.—The Queen Esther circle met this week at the home of Vera Jane Hourigan, with Mrs. J. A. Scofield reviewing the first three chapters of their book, "Flying Boat," by Robert McLean.

During the business meeting it was decided to have an attendance contest and Betty Wagner and Jean Davis were appointed as captains of the two teams. Vera Jane Hourigan, president, also appointed a membership committee, members being Barbara Wagner, Mary Carey and Evelyn Redfern. On the attendance committee are Lois Jourigan and Mary Sue Harper.

P-T. A. Program Set For Monday

Routine Session Held by Council

ORANGE, Jan. 23.—City council members met yesterday for a brief session. Arrangements were made for installation of a one and a half inch meter in the new state forestry building on East Chapman avenue and it was decided that free service would be given the state in installation of the meters, which are to be paid for by the state. Two three-quarter inch meters also will be installed.

It was decided that Harry Johnson, foreman on the sewer projects now under way would be given $6 a day for not more than 20 days work a month.

A co-partnership between the city and Rex Shannon, owner of an ambulance, was abandoned but mutual agreement owing to the fact that a recent state regulation makes the partnership illegal. Shannon stated that the ambulance will be at the disposal of the police in case of an emergency.

SCHOOL VALUES OUTLINED FOR MAPLE P-T.A.

ORANGE, Jan. 23.—Mrs. Newell Moore, of Santa Ana, was principal speaker at the regular meeting of the Maple Street Parent-Teacher association yesterday, with Mrs. Stewart White as program chairman.

Mrs. Moore outlined the work of the nursery school and its values to the mother and to the child, and showed motion pictures of the activities of the Santa Ana nursery school. She was introduced by Mrs. Vern Bates, who also presented two high school students, Nettie Wiloughby, singing "Rosary," and Dale Curry, who sang "Silvia." Mrs. Alice Des Larzes Dunlap was the accompanist for both numbers.

Mrs. Harold Foster presided at the short business session, when it was reported that $25 had been cleared at the recent benefit bridge parties given by members of the unit. The money will be used to finish paying for the radio-phonograph purchased by the P-T. A. last year and presented to the school.

Preceding the meeting a tea was served by mothers of second grade pupils, with Mrs. Edwin Westcott and Mrs. Harry Hoover as chairmen.

THE TINYMITES

The race between the kangaroo and bear and deer was something new. The Tinies sure enjoyed it. They were thrilled as they could be.

Wee Coppy shouted, "Come on, bear! Show both the others you are there. I think you are the fastest, and I'll very shortly see."

"Aw, my bet's on the little deer. I'd think that you could see from here that he is the most graceful," Windy said. He's going to win.

"The kangaroo's a clumsy sort, but he is giving us real sport," the kangaroo then started jumping. This made Duncy grin.

"Ah, there's my choice," the lad cried out. "He knows what racing's all about, and even though he kicked me, I am pulling for him strong."

"He has a lot of strength in store, and he can jump six feet or more. If he just keeps on going, I am sure he can't go wrong."

They found the Duncy's guess was right, and it was quite a pretty sight to see the kangaroo leap forth and win the funny race. The little deer then picked up speed and Scouty cried, "That's all you need." The whole race was over, with the deer in second place.

Just then the hunter shouted, "Run and hide! I'm going to have some fun." The Tinies dropped behind a hill. The hunter climbed a tree.

"Two real long-necked giraffes I've spied, and I will lasso them," he cried. "You'll see a funny stunt, if you will keep your eyes on me."

The two giraffes came closer

STORIES IN STAMPS
By I. S. Klein

It was a strange three-masted schooner, with a smoking funnel in the center, and paddle wheels at the sides, that plowed her way without sails from Quebec to the Isle of Wight. That was in August, 1833, and the ship was the Canadian-built "Royal William," first to cross the Atlantic from west to east entirely by steam. The 2500-mile voyage took 17 days.

But that wasn't the only distinction that this vessel gained in history. Hardly had she finished her voyage, when Spain bought her, renamed her the "Ysabel Segunda" and sent her to help stifle a rebellion. In that capacity, the former Royal William was the first steamship to fire a gun in action. Shortly after, the ship was wrecked on the rocks off the harbor of Santander, Spain.

On the centenary of her passage across the Atlantic, Canada issued a stamp commemorating this event and illustrating the vessel.

FLYING FURS from the NORTHLAND

By James Montagnes

FUR flies. Bales of fur wing their way from the northernmost parts of the continent to the markets at Edmonton, Winnipeg, Montreal, New York and London. Rifles, canned foods, radios, beads, knives, dresses, coats, magazines, gasoline, bacon, flour, sugar, trade goods of all kinds, return to the northland these days on the wing. The fur trade has gone modern: it uses the air.

Typical is the report from the largest Canadian air transport operator. Several times a year it speeds a cabin plane to a secret destination. There two young trappers meet the plane with bales of fur. They are trapping in the No Man's Land of the Canadian Arctic, too far inland from the coast for the Eskimos, too far north of the tree line for the Indians.

One of the trappers goes with the plane and takes the furs to market at Edmonton. Then he flies back with supplies, traps, reading material and food. His partner takes the next trip. They lose no time on the more than a thousand-mile trip from their trapping grounds to Edmonton. Modern, they use the air.

During the last five years the fur trade has been revolutionized. The price of fur took a drastic drop early in the depression. The market for expensive fur coats and fur neck-pieces went with the stock market, and while the Indians, Eskimos and white trappers did not play the market, they heard the bad news when they brought in their furs.

Long trips some of them had to be, too. By canoe they traveled slowly the rapid-strewn rivers of the northland, portaging their heavy packs of fur and their food supplies for the trip. Often weeks of traveling were necessary to reach a post. Sometimes their canoes had to be abandoned, far from a trading place, damaged beyond repair.

WHEN they set out again to their trapping grounds their grub stakes were smaller. Some of them had made inquiries at the fur posts. Some of the independent fur dealers also asked questions. Result—airplane pilots discussed poundage and ton rates.

Little known places were shown to pilots on the empty maps of the far north. Soon the radio stations became busy. Planes were being chartered to take supplies inland, and to come to take furs out.

Several trappers went farther. Delayed by bad weather in reaching the post, they had little time left to reach their trapping grounds. Formerly they would have set out by canoe, with their new dogs, sled and supplies aboard.

They would paddle till the ice became too thick on the rivers. Then they would abandon their canoe on shore, wait for a good snow-storm, start out by dog team. Six weeks were sometimes wasted that way. But now airplanes were available. They took to the air, dogs, sled and all.

And while it was not always pleasant for the pilot to have a bunch of snapping dogs running around the cabin, several thousand feet in the air, they have been taking their loads to the trapping grounds for some years now without accident. In a few hours trappers now reach their destination.

The life of the fur trapper has changed practically overnight. Once it was a life of isolation. As recently as 1930 trappers would leave the trading posts for a year, loaded down with provisions, annual unread mail and newspapers, new traps and ammunition. There are still a few trappers who live that way.

The Eskimo has become modernized. Most white trappers have changed their ways. In fact so much so that there are trappers who have mastered the wireless code, installed low-powered short wave transmitters, and call up the nearest airbase when they want a plane to bring them a load of fresh vegetables, butter and eggs! Grapefruit is a breakfast dish on the Arctic Circle these days.

NOT that the life of the northern fur trapper is so easy these days. He still faces the rigors of the north.

How the airplane—and the radio—have revolutionized the habits of the trappers, some of whom do not come out to civilization once in 30 years

"The Eskimo found him 30 feet below on the rocks. He tried to place a loop of seal-skin rope around the body, and failed. Then he lowered the sled, fastened the rope around some rocks, and slid down to his comrade only to find him dead."

These old-time huskies—together with the trappers whose goods they haul—are going to the trapping grounds in the far Canadian northland by airplane, thus saving much time and avoiding many hardships.

There is the case of the two Eskimo trappers in the eastern Arctic. Only one of them came back from the trap lines. The other went after a fox which had escaped from the trap as the men were releasing it. He ran after the fox across the hard wind-driven snow. Suddenly his mate heard a yell, and saw him disappear over an ice-coated ledge, beyond which was a steep cliff.

Running to see what happened to his fellow trapper, the Eskimo found him 30 feet below on the rocks. He tried to place a loop of seal-skin rope around the body, and failed. Then he lowered the sled, fastened the rope around some rocks, and slid down to his comrade.

Somehow he hauled the Eskimo up, only to find him dead.

A white trapper hurt himself while cleaning his traps. No other trappers nearby, he managed to hitch up his dogs and traveled 50 miles in terrible pain to the nearest post. There his wounds were attended and he was saved from blood poisoning, which would have cost him his life.

Two trappers came into a lonely fur post on the western Arctic coast. One of them had a frost-bitten leg in which gangrene had set in. To complicate matters, the men had a huge load of furs. Asked for their trapping permits, they admitted not having any. They had taken a chance to get their furs sold without paying the heavy license fees required by the Canadian government in the North West Territories.

A police constable at the post arrested them but sent the sick man to Aklavik hospital, 200 miles distant, where the trapper lost his leg.

NOR are all the dangers with the trappers. The airplane is now part of the fur business, and the crew of a three-ton payload freighter was nearly marooned one winter on the shores of Hudson Bay.

Part of a fleet of planes taking in supplies to fur posts, this ship was caught on its last trip. One of those sudden early winter storms of the north hit the post while the planes were riding at anchor in the bay. One of the planes came loose, rammed into the pontoons of the big ship, and jammed into an ice floe. As planes carry spare pontoons, the smaller ship was easily repaired.

Not so the big ship. Its pontoons had been made special. And it took the crew nearly a week in the biting winds of early winter to repair the pontoon sufficiently with the limited material at the post for it to float the plane during the take-off. Then it sprang a leak.

The difficult job had to be done again, this time with less material. But though the weather fell to below zero, and the bay was covered with ice before they were ready, the crew broke a channel through the ice and managed to take off with the repaired pontoons for the 2000-mile hop to Winnipeg, its base.

There was the fur trapper who came from his lonely post at Port Harrison on the east coast of Hudson Bay to get married. He took a plane home with his wife, in the midst of winter. The plane was radio-equipped; nevertheless it failed to report its arrival. Days went by, and no one heard from him.

Rescue planes were dispatched. Then the radio was heard. The plane had been forced down by heavy snowstorms. The newlywed fur trader, wife and pilot had been on short rations for the better part of a week, snowed in on the coast, unable to dig themselves out.

THE airplane has meant the difference between profit and loss to the fur trappers in these days of low fur prices.

Costly as it may seem to charter a plane—and the average fare in the far north runs into several hundred dollars—it is cheaper for the trappers and traders to ship their furs out by plane and to travel in to their trapping grounds again by plane, than to do it by the old-fashioned canoe or dog team method. For food for men and beasts for several weeks costs money, as do canoes, outboard motors and sleds.

So the airplane is being used to take furs out more frequently. Smaller profits are made, but the turnover is more rapid. Your new fur coat may consist of pelts only four or five months off the Arctic tundra.

The fur companies, large and small, are also using the airplane extensively for inspection purposes, saving weeks of arduous travel for their inspectors. Heated planes make fur inspections easier, faster, and more frequent during the trapping season. Also, planes have opened new fur trading posts in points inaccessible before, especially in northern Ontario.

And just as the airplane has made changes in the transportation of fur and trade goods, so have other changes come into the fur business "down north." Trappers no longer rush into trading posts to learn the latest news, to hear the gossip of the northland. Today there are few cabins in the far north where a loudspeaker does not hold forth.

The radio has been a boon to the trappers. It has changed their life. In the Arctic they can tune in regularly any station of importance on the continent. And they don't have to juggle wavelength switches to hear Hawaii, Japan, England, Germany, Spain, France and other countries across the seas.

IN their own region there are regular broadcasts from government stations with news of the world, and happenings of the Arctic. In addition a number of powerful United States and Canadian stations have their weekly Arctic broadcasts when messages for the in the Arctic are sent from relatives and friends.

Nor is the fur business in the northland an exclusive industry for men. There are known to be a number of women, some former school-teachers, who have gone into the bush, have built cabins in fertile trapping country, and have made good at the business of pelts.

In other sections of the Dominion fur trappers are known to have migrated to the bush with their families, husband, wife and children bringing in furs to the nearest trading post and receiving in exchange food, clothing, ammunition, traps, money and whatever else their furs would buy.

Indians, half-breeds and Eskimos, while accorded some privileges over the white trapper, have successfully taken to commercial hunting for furs, Eskimos especially showing their prosperity by owning many modern luxuries, including expensive motor-powered schooners.

Once the beaver was the basis on which the fur trade paid the trappers for skins. A pelt was worth so many or such a fraction of a beaver skin. That was in the early days of the fur trade. But the beavers are nearly extinct now, and only Indians may trap them in limited areas today.

In these days of 4,500,000-pelt catches a year, the muskrat is the most plentifully caught fur bearer, more than half the annual catch consisting of these animals, whose value is one-twentieth of a beaver skin. Ermine, squirrel, mink, silver fox, skunk, and beaver follow in order, according to recent statistics of the Canadian government. Marten, red, white and cross foxes, rabbits and raccoons are still caught in tens of thousands for the fur trade. Annually, during the depression years, Canada's fur crop has averaged $11,000,000.

Picnics and Reunions

NORTH DAKOTA

Everyone from North Dakota is included in the call to the annual picnic reunion in Sycamore Grove park, Los Angeles, all day, Saturday, February 1. Judge Frank P. Allen, the new president, will preside. Secretary R. H. Harrold will be in charge of information and badges. Hot coffee will be served. The program will follow the dinner hour and will include brief addresses and music. The call is an open one to all from that state and tourists are especially invited.

KANSAS

Judge Wm. F. Schoch, president of the Long Beach Kansas Association, announces the annual Kansas Day picnic reunion, celebrating the 73rd anniversary of statehood, all day Wednesday, January 29, in beautiful Bixby Park, Long Beach. There will be county registers and headquarters so all may find the old neighbors even with thousands present. There will be a brief program opening at 2 o'clock, songs, short talks and a greeting from Gov. Alf Landon. All the tourists and visitors from the old home state will be made welcome and may meet the old time friends.

Santa Ana Is First of All
A Fine City

And, being a fine city, it is naturally a fine place in which to live, and an ideal place in which to own a home. We have made it very easy to buy a desirable home in Santa Ana with our Budget Plan arrangement whereby the payments are made each month like rent. These monthly payments not only take care of the purchase price, but also take care of taxes, insurance and any incidentals, with absolutely no bother to the purchaser.

These three homes are indeed worthy of your inspection. One of them may be exactly what you want.

ONE FALLACIOUS ECONOMIC BELIEF CAUSES UNEMPLOYMENT AND DESTROYS NATIONS

Yesterday, the Register ended its editorial with the declaration that there is one fallacious belief which causes unemployment and promised to explain what this belief is, in today's paper. This belief which causes unemployment is that the consumer, instead of the saver, is the cause of employment—that extravagant living means more employment instead of less employment.

We now want to explain why this is not so. It can best be explained by using specific and simplified illustrations. If we go back to the simple and primitive life, we can easily understand.

If no one had any savings nor any tools, everyone would work for himself. There would be no employment. There, of course, would be plenty of work. If there were no fish hooks or fish nets, everyone would do his own fishing and work for himself. When, however, one man by saving produces a fish net or a fish hook, then he can produce so much more than a man without these tools and give the man more in fish than he could get working for himself. The man who owns the fish hooks or nets finds he cannot afford to spend his time fishing but can use his time and energy to better advantage making more nets and fish hooks. More nets and fish hooks than he could use himself, would be of no good to him, however, unless he could employ other men to use them. It is this savings that causes employment and it is this lack of savings, lack of labor saving tools, that have to be operated in order to be of value, that causes unemployment.

Let us use another primitive illustration. Suppose a man had more seed corn than he needed during the year, and more than he could plant and care for and harvest himself. The only way he could make this seed grow and be of value to him is to employ other men to plant it, care for it, and harvest it for him. Just so with every other piece of machinery and just so with every other bit of capital, whether it be the simple fish hook or the simple corn or the most complicated piece of machinery. It has to be operated in order to grow or increase and be of value to its owner. When customs and beliefs come to create public opinion so that laws and public sentiment prevent the owner from giving employment and having anything left to add to or replenish its capital, then the capital ceases to be capital and becomes of no value. This, consequently, diminishes the total capital that can be used in giving employment.

Let us use another simple illustration to prove the point. When a man buys a suit of clothes, he is not furnishing the food, shelter and clothing to the man who raised the sheep that produced the wool, to the cloth manufacturer, to the tailor who made the suit, to the merchant who sold it. This food, shelter and clothing had been advanced to the farmer who raised the sheep, to the cloth maker who made the cloth and the tailor who made the suit and to the railroad man who transported the material and to the merchant who sold the suit, by these different employers. The man who bought the suit simply reimbursed each one of these employers for the food, shelter and indulgences they had advanced to the workmen when this suit was being produced. Had no one bought the suit and it had never been used, the merchant would be poorer by the exact amount he paid for the suit, if there were no desire or need of suits in the future.

So, it is easy to see that the buyer is not the employer but only reimburses the man who originally gave the employment. The man who originally gave the employment is the saver who has used his savings—his capital—to produce what he thought society would want.

This belief that the consumer gives employment leads to customs and laws that discourage savings and the accumulation of capital and leads to customs and laws which prevent and make it practically impossible for capital that gives employment to increase rapidly enough to give employment at a high standard of living, to which the workers are entitled, if capital is allowed to increase naturally.

It is easy to see that the principal difference in our advancement in living conditions between that of animals is due only to savings turned into capital, making it possible for workers to produce greater amount with a less amount of human energy. Animals never save and turn their savings into capital and give employment. Beavers and bees work but they work with their bodies instead of using tools to turn the forces of nature to their uses. The one possible exception is the beaver, building a dam to conserve water for himself.

Thus, we see that there cannot be employment and a wage high enough to result in a high living standard without more and more capital. Consequently, beliefs which retard the increase of capital and encourage its consumption cannot but eventually reduce the human race to nearly the state of animals, unless the approach of this state makes it possible for human beings to realize the cause of their downfall.

Tomorrow, the Register will continue the discussion as to the importance of more and more capital being needed, in order to give employment at higher and higher wages and will give a few concrete examples.

BAN TRICK TESTS FOR ALIENS

Even a bureaucracy can get wise to itself, in time.

It is announced in Washington that government officials examining applicants for citizenship must hereafter ask sensible questions. The trick questions of the past are out; and when you look at some of them you can only wonder what some of our foreign-born citizens must have thought of the wisdom of Uncle Sam.

In the past, for instance, aliens have been asked such questions as these: How high is the Bunker Hill monument? How many stars are there on a quarter? How many legs has the Constitution? What has Ireland been fighting for? Can Congress make a law to put me in jail for 40 years?

About all that the examiners forgot seems to have been to ask the boys, How old is Ann? How anyone in his senses could have expected to gauge a man's fitness for citizenship by his answers to such questions is beyond understanding. It is good to learn that examinations henceforth will be more sensible.

RIGHT KIND OF EDUCATION

The members of the local Sea Scout troops who were aboard the yacht, "Stranger," owned by Fred Lewis, were indeed fortunate. They had an opportunity of getting practical education on their trip to the Atlantic Waters. They got first hand experience and maritime training which will be invaluable to them. Their education along the line of tropical fishes, birds and animals will make them much better students of nature, and make them more observant. Their responsibility on the ship gave them discipline and respect for order and the rights of others. It would be fine if more men with means would take the time and energy and could afford the expense to help develop the training of our young men in so practical a method.

A SAD STORY

I took my 'phone in hand today
And called up Doctor Hornaday,
For just the other night I'd heard
About some fish or beast or bird

Which, from creation's earliest dawn
Has borne the name "Solenodon."

Said I: "Dear Doctor, won't you please
Put my poor, groping mind at ease?

Is this a fish or brute or fowl,
And does it grunt or snarl or howl?

Does it delight to romp and play
Or spend its nights some other way?

A thing, with that amazing name
Should certainly be claimed by fame."

But Doctor Hornaday said "No,
Your hope for help is rather low.

That beast will never get the breaks;
It's one of Nature's bad mistakes.

As you have heard, time marches on
As did the poor Solenodon

Which soon will perish from the girth
Of this too often brutal earth.

And consequently this is why
We lack an adequate supply

Of Solenodons upon this sphere,
And always will, I rather fear.

Now if a didkid you'd prefer—"

I gruffly said, "No thank you sir."

JUST PLAIN JEALOUS

And now a set of quintuplets has been born in Nicaragua. But they arrived too late to grab much publicity.

CAUSE OF WORRY

In the last photograph of Jim Farley we have seen, he looked like a man who was vainly trying to think up some kind of a new stamp.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—Prejudicing the press and the country against the supreme court apparently continues.

New Deal methods of retaliating against the decisions of the highest court.

Just why President Roosevelt thought the supreme court had by its decision in the rice millers case last week reversed the case of Bailey vs. George and the statute of 1867 relating to the collection of taxes can be explained otherwise only on the ground that neither Mr. Roosevelt nor his advisers examined the opinion of the court in the Bailey case and compared it with the unanimous opinion of the court in the rice millers case.

To understand the White House comment on the "reversal" by the court it is necessary to state first that in 1867 congress passed a law which reads as follows:

"No suit for the purpose of restraining the assessment or collection of any tax shall be maintained in any court."

But this statute has always been considered to mean that no suit shall be entertained if the protesting taxpayer has an "adequate remedy at law." Congress can, of course, remove all remedies at law by refusing to permit itself to be sued for a refund of taxes or it can so limit the right to sue for a refund as practically to prevent the taxpayer from recovery of illegally collected taxes.

It is the fact that congress did so impair the attainment of an adequate remedy at law on processing taxes which distinguishes the rice millers case from the Bailey vs. George. Under the constitution, all "judicial power" is vested in the supreme court and then judicial power is defined as follows in section two of article III:

"The judicial power shall extend to all cases, in law and equity, arising under the constitution."

So the supreme court has to decide whether the judicial power shall be interposed as a matter of equity to prevent a tax from being collected which might later be impossible to recover.

Now in the so-called child labor tax case, the citizen petitioned the court for an injunction on the ground that the tax was illegal. Separately the question of the constitutionality of the tax itself was decided in a case that was handed down on the same day that the technical problem was determined, namely whether the tax should or should not have been collected and later refunded.

Chief Justice Taft, in handing down the opinions of the court, now known as the Bailey vs. George case, pointed out that while the petitioners had averred that they had exhausted legal remedies, "there are no specific facts set forth sustaining this mere conclusion."

Mr. Taft argued that while section 2224 of the federal law provides that no suit restraining assessment or collection of any tax (act of 1867) shall be maintained in any court, the mere averment that some statute imposing the tax is invalid doesn't take the case out of the section in question and beyond its jurisdiction.

But Mr. Taft did say that "There must be some extraordinary and exceptional circumstance not here averred or shown to make the provision of the section inapplicable."

He went on to remark that the amount assessed could have been recovered in a suit and that "no fact is alleged which would prevent them from availing themselves of this form of remedy."

Now the rice millers came into the federal courts and did allege that they had no adequate remedy at law. They pointed to the amendments of the agricultural act of 1933, known as the act of 1935, which specifically says that illegally collected taxes could not be recovered from the federal government unless proof could be made to the satisfaction of the commissioner of internal revenue that the tax had not been passed on to the consumer.

The rice millers contended that they couldn't make such a separation in the pricing of their articles and that they had no adequate remedy at law. The supreme court in directing the entry of an injunction merely agreed with the rice millers' statement of facts and held that in effect the latter had no adequate remedy at law. Hence the suit to restrain collection of the tax was a proper exercise of equity power under constitutional law.

It is true the supreme court in rare instances has granted injunctions against collection of taxes and that it has done so in apparent to anyone who has studied the record in the federal courts. Thus, in 1932, the supreme court said (in Miller vs. Standard Nut Margarine company) that "where a complainant shows that in addition to the illegality of an exaction in the guise of a tax, there exist special and extraordinary circumstances sufficient to bring the case within some acknowledged head of equity jurisprudence, a suit may be maintained to enjoin the collection."

What are the "special and extraordinary circumstances" these days? For one thing, the federal government has been withdrawing the right it has hitherto given to a citizen to sue to recover moneys illegally extracted from him by his government. It began with the withdrawal of the right to sue to recover on the gold clause of Liberty bonds and it was repeated in the agricultural act of 1935 after a prolonged controversy and finally a compromise in congress which really did withdraw the right to sue despite the administration's protestations to the contrary.

Anyone who examines the agricultural act of 1935 will find that the taxpayer must prove "to the satisfaction of the commissioner of internal revenue" that he has not passed on the processing tax and the record made by the commissioner must be the record for courts of review. In other words, if, as the rice millers claimed, the passing on of the tax was not susceptible of proof, it meant they were really deprived of their opportunity to sue for recovery.

The supreme court found, therefore, in the rice millers case this month as it did in 1932 and as it has done in other instances that "special and extraordinary circumstances" were actually alleged and did exist. There is, hence, no parallel at all with the George vs. Bailey case.

In these days of apologies by public officials for "honest mistakes," as Secretary Ickes calls them, someone in the executive branch of the government owes the supreme court an apology for the wrong impression given to the press based on wrong information supplied to the president through a hasty reading or a failure to look up the precedents that governed the court's latest decisions.

Little Benny's Note Book

By LEE PAPE

I wasn't feeling like doing my homework, and properly not even looking like it, and pop said, Come on, young fellow, get going, step on the gas, in all the history of the world nobody has even been known to finish without first starting.

Well aw G, pop, I said, and pop said, That argument is fallacious and the logic incoherent. Did you ever stop to realize that the ability to study, or in other words, concentrate, is only a habit? he said.

Well gosh, pop, that's just the trouble, I've got the habit of not studying, I said, and pop said, I know you have, and why? Because of constant practice, the same way you acquire any other habit. Do you know what a dope is? he said.

Yes sir, I said, and pop said, Well I'll make it a little plainer to you. A full fledged 33rd degree dope is a man who has spent his whole life developing the habit of inattention, until practice has finely made him absolutely inflexible with his head in the clouds and his feet in the holes. Is that the way you want to be? pop said.

No sir, G, I said, and pop said, Then practice paying attention to the job on hand and don't let your mind wander till it's finished.

Which just then ma waked in saying to pop, Willyum Potts you waked out of that dining room a half an hour ago with the form declaration that you were going strait to your desk and write your cousin Clara a note of congratulation on her silver anniversary, and you don't look to me like a man that's just finished a letter.

Neither I am and I'm glad you've braved the matter up, because it's an excellent object lesson to Benny on something I was just speaking to him about, pop said.

And he hurry up went and did it while ma was still thinking of what elts to say.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

IRRITATING WAYS

Some children have very irritating ways. The family puts up with them until in a moment of fatigue they lose patience. Then there is a major disturbance. It would be better to try to check those irritating habits as soon as they appear, and failing that, deal with them calmly before one reaches the breaking point.

Take for instance the child who as soon as he is seated at table begins to drum with his fingers and whistle through his teeth. Nobody can stand that for any length of time. The very first time he forgets himself look at him as calmly you can and send him on an errand. The first errand should be short and easy. That will change his thinking and give the family time to recover its good nature. The next time he forgets make the errand a bit more elaborate so he has to take more time to exert himself more. That will cost him some of his dinner time. His food will not be as good as it would have been had he been at the table. A few hints like this will soon make a glance at his hands sufficient, should he forget. But don't let him go on until you feel like throwing a plate at him.

The child who interrupts is a great nuisance, a great destroyer of harmony. Wait until he finishes, and then go on with the conversation. If he forgets again, wait again. Keep on doing this, waiting for him to finish and then ignoring his speech, until he gets the idea. It won't take long, especially if you reinforce the lesson with a private conference. Don't let him continue until he makes an exhibition of himself in the presence of guests and you lose your temper and chase him out of the room. He needs instruction day by day.

Children have all sorts of ways of irritating grown-ups. Sometimes they are harmless enough and grown-ups have no right to be irritated, as when a child likes to listen to a silly program on the radio. It is not silly to the child. He likes it.

But there are things that children do that justly provoke the grown-up's protests. There is the child who knows he is to go on a trip, gets all ready and when he is just about to step into the car on schedule time remembers he has not gone to the bathroom. He has plenty of time and he knows he had to go. There is the child who is always late; the one who is forever looking for his hat or his books at school time; the one who loses everything; the one who knows all about everybody's business except his own; the one who ruins his clothes.

Well, there are grown-ups just like them. The children did not invent ways to bother other people. They found them ready made. The thing to do is to keep as calm about it as possible and keep on teaching them to do the right thing. Some day there comes an opportunity to give the habitual offender a sharp lesson through experience.

It would be good for the late one to be left at home. It would be good for the untidy one to lose a cherished belonging. This treatment is not always possible, but the time comes when things are set right for a helpful experience. Don't interfere with that experience. Let the annoyed have it. He continues to be annoying because he is saved always from his own folly. When there is a good chance to educate him by experience, take it.

Editor Register.

The recent kind offer of your columns for the discussion of local problems prompts me to express some views regarding the subject of business and professional license taxes.

Entirely aside from the several reasonable arguments which members of the local private music teaching profession have presented to the city council against the assessment of an occupational tax against them, it seems to me that every red-blooded American must resent the imposition of such a restriction upon his personal liberty and feel justified in resisting it to the limit.

If there is any fundamental right to which an American citizen is presumably entitled, and which the Constitution itself avowedly guarantees to him, it is that of pursuing a legitimate occupation for the provision of livelihood for one's self and family.

Whenever any governmental body assumes authority to impose restrictions and handicaps upon that right in the form of a special license tax, it is, in the opinion of many persons of sound judgment, a direct violation of the spirit of the Constitution and its specific objective, the assurance of "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

Far from imposing obstructive conditions, every social group worthy to be called enlightened seeks the special protection and encouragement of those of its number who contribute educational, cultural and spiritual values to the common welfare.

I am certain that musicians, as a class, are just as ready and willing to meet their civic responsibilities, financial and otherwise, as are the citizens of any other calling.

We do regard this matter as a license requirement, however, as an inapplicable infringement upon our right to earn our living through the practice of a legitimate profession. We believe there are certain extenuating circumstances which should exempt us from such a tax levy which may not apply to other groups. It is my personal belief, however, that the occupational tax is unjust, unnecessary and unconstitutional and that it should be entirely repealed. It is always discriminatory and impracticable of fair and efficient administration, a stupid relic of small-town political procedure. We have entirely too many hair-brained tax schemes spreading their parasitic growth upon the body politic which are dangerously threatening the confidence and loyalty of the American public.

I beg to refer you to the enclosed article on Business Licenses by Frank A. Garbutt, recently published in the Los Angeles Times. Very truly yours,

CLARENCE GUSTLIN.

Following is Mr. Garbutt's article:

"I have very definite information that the city council contemplates revising, increasing and extending the charges for licenses to do business in Los Angeles, notwithstanding we are taxed to death already."

These indirect taxes must be added to the overhead of every business affected and are passed on to the consumers who unconsciously pay them. They are an intolerable nuisance and restrict business that is already hampered too much. All license taxes should be repealed except possibly on liquor.

"No man should be charged for the right to transact legitimate business. This right belongs to free men."

"Merchants were originally responsible for license taxes when they urged them to drive peddlers out of business. Newspapers aided and abetted when they advocated taxes on billboards. You cannot fairly gain advantages by legislation."

"Business men can abolish our license system by combining to vote against every legislator who advocates licenses and by urging their customers who eventually pay these taxes to do the same."

"I am usually in favor of indirect taxation for revenue, but not when added to overburdening direct taxes to furnish more money for our tax spenders to squander."

"The properly combined influence of our business men and their customers is a force not to be ignored."

Editor Register:—We wish to add our commendation to that of many others for your fairness in conducting your "Clearing House."

The "Townsend Plan" has an able defender in Mr. Robb. We trust you will give him further space to finish his reply to Mr. Clark.

We had about decided to drop our subscription to your paper, but reconsidered after your giving so much space to the discussion of the A.A.R.P. We are ardent advocates of the plan as a recovery measure.

Very sincerely,
(Mrs.) BERT C. and RACHEL M. GATZLAFF, Tustin.

Editor Register:—I have read your little poem of January 17 about "Hitler's boss." It is rather nice of you, to show us your communistic friends in pictures!—if Peter Pan or Yust should get a call to be your brain Trustee; then we know; who is who! but if said person should go home to Germany, I don't think "Hitler" would rebuff him; because, Hitler is an enemy of hate and false brotherhood; if you will understand!

Sincerely,
MRS. A. FELDER, Orange, Calif.

Resolutions looking to a more general observance of Sabbath day, both locally and over the state, were presented in various Santa Ana churches today. One resolution petitions the city council to pass an ordinance requiring the closing on Sunday of theaters, poolrooms and all places of amusement. The second asks the closing of the postoffice on Sunday, and the third pledges support to a bill now before the state legislature and known as the "Sunday Law." Several of the churches took action today, while others had done so a week ago.

Dr. J. H. Garnett left this afternoon for Berkeley in the interest of the Baptist Theological Seminary. His duties will probably necessitate a stay of several months in northern California.
